

Snow, Killing Cold Sweeps South to Tunisia

LONDON (Reuters)—Heavy snow, biting cold and strong winds swept from Scandinavia to North Africa Thursday with at least three persons reported frozen to death, and 15,000 in flight after a dam broke in Holland. (See Page 8.)

Snow even fell in parts of Algeria and Tunisia, where a 60-mile-an-hour gale uprooted trees and damaged power lines. Across the Mediterranean in Italy, a 50-year-old man was found frozen to death near Milan. In the Tuscan Hills, north of Florence, police fought their way through heavy snow to bring food and medicine to an isolated village. In the Apennines, many villages were reported cut off. The first snow in three years stopped trains near Cosenza in the toe of Italy. Paris had its coldest day since 1918 with a reading of 12 degrees. Planes took off hours late after thawing out engines and most of the country was gripped in the cold wave. Austrian winter resorts reported bitter cold and snow up to seven feet deep in some areas. The Swiss resort of St.

Moritz reported a reading of 24 degrees below zero. Trains ran late and many automobiles had to be dug out of snowdrifts in Hungary. Three inches of fresh snow hit Berlin where 94 traffic accidents were caused by slippery roads.

Belgium had its third snow of the winter and temperatures were well below freezing. Holland was plagued by a high wind and bitter cold. In Britain, a snowstorm halted traffic along the south coast. Conditions in the straits of Dover and the English

Channel were reported the worst for years, with shipping at a virtual standstill. Two persons were reported frozen to death in Denmark. A ship gripped by ice hit a bridge in North Jutland and icebreakers tried to keep harbors open.

Other Bands Against

Indians Here Welcome Voting Right

The federal government's proposal to give Indians the vote, greeted with anger and dismay by bands in Montreal and Edmonton, was welcomed by Indians here—provided it doesn't mean loss of other rights. (See All Aboard by G. E. Mortimore on Page 2 and story on Page 14.)

"The federal vote was on top of the list in our brief to the cabinet last July," said Robert Clifton of Courtenay, president of the Native Brotherhood of B.C. "But we want it on the same basis as we have the provincial vote—without losing our rights as Indians."

According to the current Indian Act, a waiver to such rights must be signed before the right to federal vote will be given.

Chief John Albany of Songhees band agreed with Mr. Clifton:

But Montreal Indians seemed dead against getting the vote. "This is a trick to rob us of what we have left," said Matthew Lazare, chief of the Caughnawaga Indian council.

"Our birthright is being threatened. Why should we vote in a foreign nation?"

"This will endanger our liberty and rights. Those we treasure more than life."

He said several Indians in Caughnawaga have the franchise but few of them vote.

"We detest voting."

John A. McComber—known as Chief Poking Fire—said "Many Indians are illiterate and unable to vote. This doesn't do us any good at all. What we want is education."

The leader of Alberta's 18,500 Indians said they are "absolutely" opposed to getting the vote at the present time.

Albert Lightning of Hobbema, past president of the Indian Association of Alberta, said Indians want no change made in their status until after presentation to the Dominion government of a brief now being prepared.

Ontario Expects Second Ice Storm

TORONTO (UPI)—Ontario hydro and police officials readied their forces Thursday night for the third and possibly the worst ice storm of the winter.

The weather office in Toronto predicted rain would start falling early Friday and the fall would turn into freezing rain shortly afterwards. Twelve hours of rain was forecast for the metropolitan Toronto area.

S. J. Willis School 'Trespassing'

Pay Us for Our Land Council Tells Board

Attempt for Recompense Will Be a Test Case

Victoria will try to obtain recompense for the city-owned S. J. Willis Junior High School property on which the school board, for the last 10 years, has been "trespassing."

This decision was made by council yesterday on the basis of a report from City Manager C. C. Wyatt and City Solicitor T. P. O'Grady.

The attempt to force the Greater Victoria school board to pay for the property will be a test-case, Mayor Percy Scourrah said; if it is successful, Victoria may seek payment for other city-owned property used by the board.

In other action yesterday, council also:

• Went on record, despite objections from Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, as regarding a new city hall of at least 50,000 square feet, on at least 1½ acres, as desirable.

• Endorsed donating up to $125,000 over a period of five years toward St. Joseph's Hospital expansion, as the city's share, on a 1961 population basis, of a Greater Victoria grant of $300,000. Payments will begin after the city has finished paying Royal Jubilee Hospital a similar sum, in 1962.

Transferred in 1947

Reviewing the S. J. Willis situation, Mr. O'Grady said that although the school had been planned before the Greater Victoria school board was formed in 1946, the property was transferred to the city by the province in 1947 in exchange for city-owned Belleville Street land.

Permit for the construction of the school was issued by the city in 1949.

Under provincial legislation, he said, it was "the plain duty" of the Greater Victoria school board to acquire title to the land before starting construction and "it hasn't been done to this day."

He said the case has become "simply one of trespassing."

He noted that in January, 1959, the minister of education had suggested the matter should be settled amicably.

Mr. Wyatt recommended seeking compensation for the land, and Mayor Scourrah said it would be at the value of the land when the Greater Victoria school board took it over.

Often Scoffed At

"I've always taken the stand that they were trespassing," said Ald. M. H. Mooney, "and I've been scoffed at many times."

Ald. Elmer McEwen doubted that the city would be successful—"If I had free use of a piece of property for 10 years I think naturally I would be given title."

But Mayor Scourrah said he knew of a case of garage built on an old abandoned highway, being moved off it by a municipality after 40 years. Ald. Austin Curtis, chairman of the Victoria school board when the land transfer with the province was arranged, also didn't see how the city could now ask for payment. He joined Ald. McEwen and Rev. J. L. W. McLean in voting against seeking recompense. Ald. Edgelow's objections to saying a new city hall was desirable without knowing the cost and where the money was coming from vexed Mayor Scourrah.

A Desirable Thing

"There's no proposal to construct a city hall," the mayor said. "The resolution just says it's a desirable thing, and suggests that we need 50,000 square feet. We've got to start some place. For heaven's sake, I can't see anything wrong with that!"

Ald. Elmer McEwen voted with Ald. Edgelow against the resolution. He maintained it was too nebulous and the city ought to establish a fund for a competition for plans.

Council referred to "the solicitor or police department" a complaint received by Ald. Curtis about music being played over a public address system at Quadra and Pandora, which had bothered a clergyman at 3 a.m. and interfered with a communion service on a Sunday morning.

Invited by the society promoting conversion of Craigdarroch Castle into a museum and tourist attraction to take out a membership, it asked finance-committee to look into financial aspect of other accommodation for the school board.

It asked the B.C. Retired Municipal Employees of Greater Victoria to suggest individual cases of retired city employees on low pensions who might be considered for compassionate help, but declined to approve a blanket increase in superannuation payments to those on small pensions.

From Throne

'Speech' Stresses Men and Nature

OTTAWA (CP)—A government program putting fresh emphasis on human and natural resources, with creation of a new ministry of forests and extension of the vote to all Indians, was placed before Parliament Thursday. (See also Page 14.)

New regulations on far-north gas and oil development will stress Canadian ownership of these resources, and the territorial councils of the north may get another small nudge toward provincial status.

MAIN POINTS

Those were among the main points of the government's legislative program for the new session of Parliament disclosed in the speech from the throne read at the session opening.

The relatively-short legislative agenda announced by the government had some good news for old age pensioners and recipients of war veterans allowances who want to live outside Canada. Plans are to ease the present restriction which, in the case of pensioners, requires them to live in Canada at least six months of the year to collect payments.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker's Bill of Rights will be introduced again, and Parliament will be asked to move quickly to approve federal aid for Prairie farmers whose grain crops were snowed in last fall.

The throne speech came under immediate criticism by Opposition Leader Pearson for its absence of any reference to defence.

"It is another indication that the government has no policy on this vital matter," Mr. Pearson said in a statement.

Federal payments for Trans-Canada highway work will be extended beyond the present cut-off date of May, 1961. Highway agreements expire at the end of this year but work on the road in some provinces, especially British Columbia, Ontario and Newfoundland, is not complete.

Other measures forecast will:

1. Provide a uniform retirement age of 75 for all federally-appointed judges in superior, county and territorial courts.

2. Put more money in the government's housing fund for direct mortgage lending, depleted last fall.

3. Amend combines legislation dealing with business mergers, with one aim to "protect the interests of small business firms."

4. Provide a three-year extension, to the end of 1963, of federal gold mining subsidies at their present rates. This costs around $12,000,000 annually.

5. Continue until March 31, 1962, the present tax-sharing deal with the provinces allowing them a 13-per-cent share of

'Fantastic' Weapon Enables Russia to Cut Manpower

MOSCOW (AP)—Nikita S. Khrushchev said Thursday the Soviet Union is so strong it is cutting the number of men in its armed forces by almost one-third and relying upon the greatest firepower rockets and Inter-Continental Ballistic Missiles ever possessed by any nation.

"And more awesome power is to come, the Soviet premier told 1,300 deputies of the Supreme Soviet parliament.

"The central committee of the Communist party and the Soviet government can inform you, comrade deputies, that though the weapons we have now are formidable weapons, the weapon we have in the hatching stage today is even more perfect, even more formidable," Khrushchev said.

"The weapon which is being developed—and is, as they say in the portfolio of our scientists and designers—a fantastic weapon."

Khrushchev did not elaborate on the "fantastic" weapon in his address, but he said that "now it is quite clear that the United States of America is not the world's most powerful military power."

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Atomic scientist Ralph E. Lapp said that Nikita Khrushchev's "fantastic" new weapon may be an "orbital H-bomb" that could be stationed in space and fired or recalled on command.

Single Piper Plays Hammer To Last Rest

VANCOUVER (CP)—A piper played a lone lament Thursday as the body of Hon. Eric Hamber, former lieutenant-governor of British Columbia, was borne through two lines of dignitaries and Seaford Highlanders.

Among more than 500 persons who attended funeral services at Christ Church Cathedral here were Lieut.

Governor-General Frank Ross, Attorney-General Robert Bonner and Education Minister Leslie Peterson.

Tug Loses Battle, Crippled Ship Sinks

Victoria-owned tug Cambrian Salvor yesterday lost a week-long struggle to save a leaking, storm-battered, crippled Panamanian freighter.

CREW SAFE

Donald B. Elworthy, vice-president in charge of operations for Island Tug and Barge Ltd., said last night that Capt. James Van Komodo had radioed that officers and crew were safe after abandoning the Gambler one hour and 40 minutes before she sank.

The tug is now headed for its Yokohama base with survivors.

Sudbury II, which was racing to assist her sister tug, was still one day away when the freighter went down. The Sudbury is now on her way back to Victoria.

The Gambler was on her way from Baltimore to Kobe, Japan, with 8,000 tons of scrap iron when she ran out of fuel, encountered foul weather and started taking on water through a leak in the hull.

PUMPS, FUEL

The Cambrian Salvor put three small pumps aboard the freighter as well as 10 tons of fuel for her engines. Sudbury II carried pumps which might have swung the balance.

Bootleggers Padlocked

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two premises in downtown Vancouver against which convictions under the Liquor Act have been obtained were ordered padlocked Thursday by Magistrate Oscar Orr.

The magistrate made the ruling after the registered owners, lawyer Dugald Donaghy and John Cross, said they were not opposing the action.

German Ship Strikes Mine

COVERACK, England (AP)—The 2,693-ton German ship Marmara, with a crew of more than 20, radioed Thursday night that it had struck a mine and needed help.

The ship was off the West German island of Borkum in the North Sea.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

All Canada's Indians are to be offered the federal vote. That is the news from Ottawa, as conveyed in the Speech from the Throne.

The decision is a wise one. Citizenship Minister Ellen Fairclough and the government to which she belongs deserve praise for moving to wipe out one of the discriminatory laws that make the Indian a stranger in his own country.

A great number of Indians, and their non-Indian friends, will cheer this news. It is a sign of the government's good will toward the Indians, and the government's intention to give Canada's native people a better deal.

However, the more cautious among the friends of the Indians will restrain their enthusiasm until they know exactly what kind of law the government proposes.

An Indian living off the reservation already has the federal vote. In addition, all Indian war veterans, and their wives, regardless of where they live, can freely cast a ballot in federal elections. Other Indians who live on the reservation are permitted to vote only if they sign a waiver giving up the special taxation rights which they enjoy as Indians.

They feel that the Crown gave the Indians these rights in exchange for the land and freedom which the white men took from them.

Given Rights Forever

Professor Harry Hawthorn, University of British Columbia anthropologist and noted authority on Indian affairs, believes that the Indians are basically right in this view, and that the tax privileges were given them forever.

In order to cast a federal vote, therefore, an Indian must do one of two things: Leave the reserve, which is his home; or give up rights which he values as highly as people brought up in the western European tradition value free speech and the secret ballot.

There are people who dispute the soundness of Indian views, and take issue with authorities like Professor Hawthorn. However, there is no disputing the fact that most Indians cherish their rights. The white man has used the Indian shamefully. Now he is trying to make amends, and lift up the spirits of the people to whom he did such injustice. This is not the time for the white man to drive hard bargains.

The white man can afford to be generous. He has almost a moral obligation to accept, and give up, the rights of the Indians. The time for haggling and horse-trading—if there is to be any haggling—will come later.

The demand made by certain friends of the Indians has been, not merely the federal vote for people of Indian status, but the federal vote with no strings attached.

Before Parliament

This is the measure which Frank Howard, CCF member of Parliament for Skeena, has introduced several times as a private member's bill, only to have it "talked out" and abandoned.

Does the government propose to grant the vote without loss of privileges? Indians and their friends will wait and see, before they welcome the new law.

The federal vote only is in question. Four provinces—B.C., Ontario, Manitoba and Newfoundland—have already given Indians the provincial vote.

Another important doubt remains unsettled. Thousands of Indians, in Ontario and the Prairie provinces, don't want the vote at any price.

The late John Laurie, cham-

panion of Prairie Indians, pointed out that the people who lived under treaties were strongly opposed to accepting liquor or the vote. They felt that both privileges would violate the terms of their treaties—at least in spirit—and lead to an attack on Indian rights and a grab for their lands.

Iroquois of the Six Nations in Ontario do not want the vote either.

Would it be fair to force the federal vote upon people who hate the idea of it? One can easily say that the individual has the right to accept or refuse the vote; but the issue is not as simple as that.

The Indian's values are not precisely the same as the white man's. He feels that if any in the band accept the vote, the rights of all may be in jeopardy.

Votes on Voting

Perhaps a just solution would be to allow plebiscites on the federal vote, just as plebiscites can be taken on liquor. Then the tribes which disliked the vote could keep it out.

Dissenting individuals would be free to leave the reserve and set up house elsewhere.

All B.C. Indian bands would certainly accept the vote. They could do so without offending their brothers of other tribes outside the province.

There is another discriminatory law which should be removed as fast as the Indians wish it removed. This is the liquor law, which makes it a crime for any Indian to take a bottle home, or for a white man to pour an Indian guest a drink.

The provincial government can give Indians equal drinking rights whenever it chooses. Ontario has already done so. B.C. can do the same, as soon as Messrs. Bennett and Bonner cease their shameful efforts to pass the buck to Ottawa.

One more thing needs to be said. Indians won't automatically be better off because they get liquor and the vote. They will still need a great deal more encouragement and help, if they are to become self-reliant. Canada must be aware of using liquor and the vote as a tranquilizer, to deaden her conscience toward the Indians.

Sticks to Business

At a small factory in Chiddingfold, Surrey, England, a craftsman checks a stock of walking sticks. Although canes aren't fashionable, the small manufacturing plant gets enough orders to stay in business. They're all made by hand from the branches of ash trees that grow in the vicinity.

Mayor May Probe Employee Parking

Mayor Percy Scourrah said yesterday he was prepared to ask public works committee to study complaints that taxpayers are being discriminated against by the city in permitting 12 city hall employees free parking on the new off-street parking lot.

The Cormorant Street lot at the site of the former firehall and public market was open only a few hours when it came under verbal fire from nearby businessmen.

Service station operator George Taylor said "I don't see any reason why taxpayers' money should be used to provide free parking space for city employees. Why should some get it free?"

Lawn mower retailer George Alexander asked what good will the new parking space be "if they fill it up with free parking?" Several of his customers wanted to know why some people were given red stickers on their windshields for free parking, he said.

On Farm Buildings

Tax Exemptions Increase Asked

Tax exemptions on farm buildings, other than farm homes, should be increased from $5,000 to $10,000, the B.C. Federation of Agriculture said yesterday in its annual brief to the provincial cabinet.

The federation asked the government to name a royal commission to hear a complaint that farmers are over-taxed.

It asked that police and fire protection be charged against farm land improvements only, and not on the land, and declared that in some instances farmers are paying more in fire and protection costs than are local banks.

As long as such services as schools are taxed against land, farmers are being asked to pay more than their fair share in comparison with fellow citizens within the same areas based on comparative incomes and ability to pay, the brief pointed out.

The farmers again asked for compulsory arbitration by a Supreme Court judge where perishable goods are concerned in a strike.

The brief also asked the government to reinstitute control of dairy products at the resale level. Employment of a horticultural markets specialist by the government to provide production and marketing guidance for farmers was also asked.

Strachan Warns Line May Be Built by B.C.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan warned yesterday that there "now appears to be a very real possibility" that the government is preparing to force the power commission into financing and building the proposed high-voltage transmission line from the Peace to Vancouver.

He said it might be built under the guise of a share in the Peace River development. "The public must be warned that such a plan would mean that the people of British Columbia would be forced against their will to come to the aid of the Peace promoters by relieving them of a major portion, approximately $75,000,000, of their proposed capital outlay," he said.

Court Cost Budgeted

City council pushed forward yesterday toward establishment of a juvenile and family court for most or all of Greater Victoria.

It voted to place enough money in this year's budget to cover the city's share of the anticipated maximum cost of $12,000, to ask the other Greater Victoria municipalities to do the same, and to inform the attorney-general with a view to obtaining "any action to expedite" establishment of the court.

B.C. Boosts Commodity Production

Net value of production of B.C.'s commodity-producing industries in 1959 reached $1,887,300,000, a gain of 5.1 per cent over 1958, Trade Minister Robert Bonner said yesterday.

Manufacturers accounted for 43.9 per cent or $828,000,000 of the total; construction, 25.2 per cent or $475,000,000; forestry, 15.6 per cent, or $295,000,000; mining 4.8 per cent, or $90,000,000; agriculture 4.4 per cent, or $83,000,000; electric power, 4.3 per cent, or $82,000,000; fisheries, 1.8 per cent, or $34,000,000; and trapping, $300,000.

In Respect to the Memory of the Late Honoured Secretary MR. H. L. HOPKINS the British and Foreign Bible Society Will Be Closed Fri., Jan. 15

For Families, Juveniles

Ald. Wilson said she didn't see how costs based on use could be worked out "without unwarranted work and expense." Dividing the costs on a population basis, she said, seemed to her to be "the only way."

"The way I feel is that the only difficulty lies with Esquimalt and Oak Bay," said Ald. Arthur Dowell. "I don't think we should argue any further. The city and Saanich can go ahead alone if they have to."

"I think there's been too much stress on the cost. I understand at the outside it's going to cost $15,000. What's $15,000 compared with the good it will do, even if the two of us have to get on with it?"

MAYOR AGREES

"We should take definite steps to proceed with it at once," said Ald. M. H. Mooney. "I couldn't agree with you more," said Mayor Percy Scourrah.

Council took other action on the juvenile front too yesterday—it approved a new curfew bylaw described by Ald. Wilson as unworkable and of no use, but unavoidsably so because council could go no farther within the terms of the Municipal Act.

With this in mind, council also agreed that the welfare committee should draft proposals for changes in the Municipal Act, to be presented to the Union of B.C. Municipalities and, if given UBCM approval, to the provincial government.

Complained of Snow Removal

Mayor Out to Get Teacher

OTTAWA (UPI) — Mayor George Nelms declared war yesterday on an Ottawa schoolteacher who complained loudly about the city's snow-removal methods.

Nelms said the teacher, W. E. Steed, should not be teaching "children of an impressionable age" and that he would write the school board to this effect.

The mayor added that if Steed knew so much about the mayor's job he should run for election. Steed complained that snow ploughs were throwing large amounts of snow into his driveway after he had cleaned it, and that snow blowers had ruined his lawn by littering it with snow and salt.

Steed's letter to the capital's board of control ended with the comment that what was needed was "a good house-cleaning of city council next December, from the mayor down." He also said he hoped other citizens would run in the election to ensure that Ottawa got "efficient value for the immense sums now spent in a haphazard, willy-nilly fashion." An angry mayor Nelms told board of control that "I am concerned that such a person who in his letter seems to flout civic authority to the extent he does, should be teaching our young people of impressionable age."

Council Opposes PWA Bid

Unanimously and quickly, city council yesterday voted to oppose Pacific Western Airlines' bid to take over from Trans-Canada Air Lines the service between Victoria and the mainland.

"I don't think there's any necessity to go into a long harangue about it," Ald. Arthur Dowell said. "I think if TCA loses the franchise it will be a sad day for Victoria."

If PWA were successful in its application to take over the service, he said, "it would just be used as a feeder line, and it would be a retrograde step. We should strongly support TCA in its fight to retain the service."

He proposed, and council agreed in the vote, that the

De Gaulle Faces Up To Crisis

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle met with his cabinet yesterday in the storm centre of a crisis brought on by his ouster of Finance Minister Antoine Pinay.

Shares dropped on the Paris stock exchange with the news of the departure of Pinay, the hard-money man who had stabilized the franc. But there was no panic.

Pinay's four fellow Independent (Conservative) party cabinet members held off any immediate announcement as to whether they would follow him out of the government.

They held a tense meeting of their own to decide on their course. Pinay had expressed the hope that they would stay on the job.

Right-wing Independents, led by party secretary-general Roger Duchet, were reported still determined to go into opposition.

Loggers Protest Taxes

VANCOUVER (CP) — J. D. Layden, managing director of the Heavy Construction Association of British Columbia, said Thursday the logging and construction industries are paying road-user taxes that are neither reasonable nor fair.

He said in an address to the Truck Loggers' Association of B.C. annual convention here the taxes should be revised to take into account the limited road user.

Mr. Layden said road user taxes have increased by 4,000 per cent for over-weight loads on trucks and the licence fees for a hauling unit have increased 228 per cent.

NICE, France (UPI) — The Soviet Union yesterday announced plans to aim rockets at Mars and Venus to see if there is life there and to resume its satellite and moon shot launchings soon.

Western scientists said that yesterday's announcement by Soviet space scientist Anatoly Blagonravov might mean that Russia would try to reach the two planets in about a year's time, when they would be within the most convenient firing range from earth.

Blagonravov, official Soviet delegate to the International Space Conference here, announced the Russian plans in a report to the 19 other nations at the meeting, including the United States. He said only that the attempts would be carried out in the "near future."

American and other Western scientists pointed out, however, that Venus would be in a favorable position for a rocket attempt about December, 1960, and would remain there for about two months.

Mars, larger to reach because of its greater distance, would be in the best spot at about the same time, they said.

Parliament Convenes

IF the Speech from the Throne is a guide, this session of Parliament may not be marked by many pronounced changes or much in the way of major legislation. Creation of a new portfolio of forest conservation will be welcomed if it means that the Dominion plans to assist the Provinces in conservation, research and their costs; but forests primarily are under provincial control. Preparatory steps to increase the administrative importance of the Yukon and the Northwest Territory are in line with the need of the times. A small host of other bills were forecast, but none on major issues.

Extension of the provisions of the Trans-Canada Highway Act after 1961 was expected. The voting of reservation Indians in Dominion elections will remove the last barrier to enfranchisement on that account. Compulsory retirement of judges at 75 years of age may engender debate in the House of Commons, though there has been demand for some age limitation. Revision of the Civil Service Act seems to come every year, but its purpose this time has yet to be stated.

British Columbia will be interested in legislation to be offered on development of hydro power on the Columbia River in association with this province. This could be an enabling bill on the Dominion's part if concurrence on the plan goes forward.

Federal plans to remove the six months' absence limitation on payment of old-age pensions, indicated in the Speech, are no doubt in response to consistent demand for this action. It was never the intention of the Canadian people to say that pensioners must remain domiciled in Canada if they do not wish. The added costs involved on the treasury should be negligible by comparison with the benefits from improving the scheme. Suggested enactments, include the Bill of Rights, which once again is to go before both Houses at the current session.

While much of mentioned legislation will be useful, the administration no doubt will have other plans to disclose as the session advances.

A Naval Flavor

SOMETHING special is in view for the annual May 24 celebrations this year and if the planning committees concerned realize all their aims there should be a good show all round. This long-standing holiday event deserves the best support that can be forthcoming, and all Victoria should spur itself to ensure this success.

Normally the armed forces play a large part and as usual all three services, regular and reserve, will be the bulwark of the grand parade down town. There is talk also of a military tattoo, which would heighten the attractions for residents and visitors alike. Another unusual feature is that an RCN warship will be anchored in the Inner Harbor, floodlit and illuminated at night, and open to the public at stated times.

A strong naval flavor in fact will be attached to this year's May 24 celebrations and for a reason worth noting. The navy has an anniversary of its own which falls due at this time and marks a very important date in its calendar. It will be the 50th anniversary of its creation as an independent seagoing arm of the nation.

It seems more than 50 years since the RCN began to bear its now proud and distinctive title, so varied have been the world's changes and the impact of two global wars. Men in blue have been part of Victoria, since its earliest beginnings, but it was on May 4, 1910, that they became officially Canadian men in blue. The White Ensign still flies from RCN warships, as it does from other Commonwealth vessels, but the Maple Leaf is the distinguishing symbol.

The RCN has grown in stature and reputation since that day 50 years ago, and in relation to its responsibilities and its resources is currently a strong and efficient defensive instrument. It possesses a war record that is an inspiration in national service, and for Victoria especially its 50th birthday has special meaning.

The coincidence of the May 24 celebrations and the RCN's own anniversary is therefore a happy one, and it should add greatly to the gaiety and interest traditional with this annual holiday event.

Disturbing Decision

MANY people must have read with feelings of amazement and alarm the recent pronouncement by Alberta's chief district court judge that a speed of 75 miles an hour on a city street late at night is not unreasonable within the meaning of the section under which the driver involved had been prosecuted. The motorist had been charged under a part of Alberta's Vehicles and Highway Traffic Act which, without setting any speed limit, forbids motorists from driving at "an unreasonable rate of speed" considering road conditions and traffic.

It is the last phrase which may afford a clue to the judge's ruling that the law had not been transgressed. From a strictly legalistic and philological point of view it may be that there was no offence, if the road was in good condition and deserted at the time. If that is so then it is the law itself which is at fault.

Nevertheless experienced drivers and those interested in public safety must wonder how anyone could describe as not unreasonable a speed of 75 miles an hour in any populated area, no matter the time of day or night. For public danger to be created it is not necessary that there should be traffic, wheeled or pedestrian, in full view. If something were to emerge from a side street half a block ahead, no vehicle travelling at 75 miles an hour could be stopped in time; and even though the hour may be 3 a.m. no city is so devoid of life as to rule out the possibility of traffic being abroad. The danger may even be greater since another driver, or pedestrian, may also assume that the streets are deserted.

Under the Alberta law 75 mph may not be unreasonable on a long, straight highway where a driver may be able to see for several miles ahead. But the law and the judge's interpretation notwithstanding, laymen may find it beyond acceptance that such a speed could ever be treated as reasonable in a built-up area.

Interpreting the News

Awakening Interest

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN coming to grips with its growing trade complexities, the United States is showing increasing awareness of the rising young giant to the north, Canada.

It is an appreciation born not so much of a fear of a competitor, but rather appreciation of a friend and partner with great buying power.

U.S. Commerce Secretary Frederick Mueller says with almost a touch of regret that, while he favors free trade between Canada and the U.S., he doesn't believe that dismantling of the border barriers will come about.

Mueller would enthusiastically support free trade with Canada. And, it could be concluded, from what other officials say, that free trade between the two neighbors would get wide support in President Eisenhower's cabinet.

But as Mueller suggests, there would be opposition on both sides of the border; the fear of industry that it might be hurt instead of aided by dismantling of tariffs and other import restrictions.

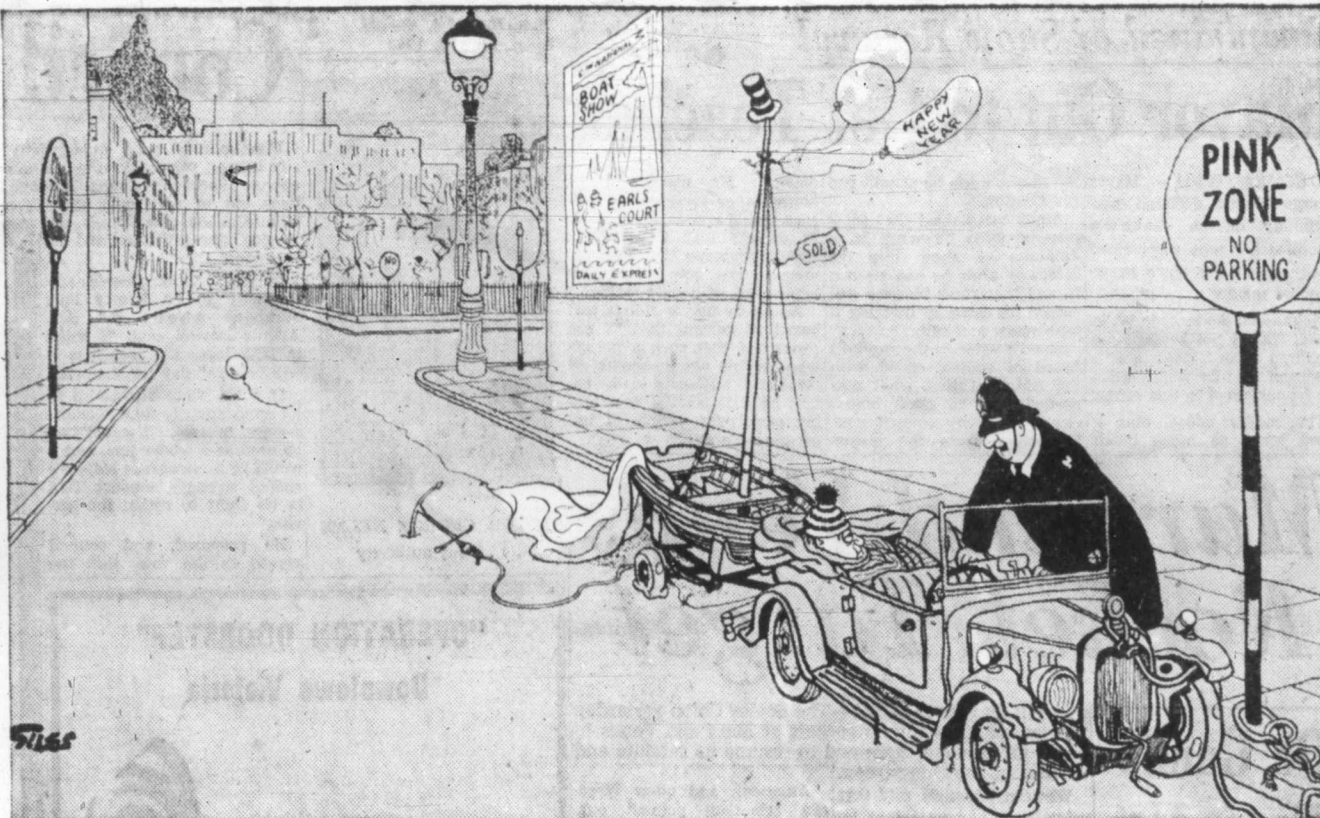

Given the same market potential, it is possible that many Canadian manufacturers can stand up against their American counterparts. But it is doubtful that the small Canadian automobile industry could stand up against the power of its Detroit parents; or that Canadian steel could make inroads in the mammoth fortress of U.S. Steel.

On the other hand, Canada might make gains in shipments of grains, minerals, forest products and other exports. But the big employment potential is in manufacturing. In the growth of mills and factories. There has been increasing argument in Canada in favor of encouraging more processing of raw materials at home and exporting the finished goods.

It would seem more favorable to Canada to go after partial free trade in certain specific products which she may produce in abundance.

What may be encouraging official U.S. thought in favor of free trade is the fact that Canada is the United States' best market, and that the U.S. faces the possibility of increasing competition from Europe's two new trade blocs.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

A LETTER to the editor in a magazine caught my eye yestereen because of its postscript. It expressed relief the writer didn't have to sign herself "Your obedient servant;" a palpable hit at another journal. Then it went on:

"How refreshing it would be if we showed some originality in ending our letters! What editor wouldn't prefer, 'Yours damn saucily,' even if he couldn't print it."

How refreshing indeed, although sometimes the contents are saucy enough.

But leaving letters-to-the-editors aside and thinking only of private ones, never meant for publication, we betray a surprising lack of invention in subscribing our names. Most of us follow set patterns.

How these came about it would be interesting to find out, and some day if the mood strikes me I'd like to do some research on the subject. As it is, yours truly—meaning in this instance this writer—is no more original than his neighbor.

But take "Yours truly," for example. Just an hour ago I wrote a letter and improved the commonplace with "Yours very truly." Why the "very" I can't now say unless something in my subconscious suggested that a plain "Yours truly" wasn't enough. Thinking it over indeed I realize I am not "his"—the man I wrote to—at all.

Few of us are in this sense, yet we go on committing paper perjury. I suppose the most overworked subscription is "sincerely," with "very" added as a degree of emphasis. If one is seeking a favor it sounds a bit more influential to double the sincerity, although this trick must be obvious by this time.

The writing of Christmas cards is an instance of how we balance our sentiments, and here I fancy "sincerely" is very popular. There shouldn't be any doubt about the sentiment else presumably one wouldn't be sending a card, but we feel compelled to gloss the printed message. Not too warmly sometimes lest someone get a wrong impression, yet not too coldly to be unreasonably casual.

The casual signature is uncommon in private correspondence, business or personal, for even with friends or relatives one seldom departs from the stereotyped. If the relationship is fairly close the word "love" is employed a lot—often enough sounding silly between men—even if such depth of feeling is a bit extravagant.

More often used, albeit a bit stilted, is that faithful standby "Yours faithfully," particularly in business letters. It can mean nothing more than a way to end a letter. If the letter contains a complaint, for instance, the writer obviously hasn't much faith in the recipient—but down goes this sentiment.

We are in a groove, obviously. Sometimes, feeling waggish perhaps, we might depart from custom and say something like "Yours till hell freezes over." Only to a boon pal, of course. But if he examined this closely he might begin to wonder. As far as we know hell can never freeze over so the pal might conclude it's his friend who is beginning to cool off.

We don't often feel free to be as facetious as this, however, and so we continue to ring the changes on "truly," "sincerely," "faithfully," and the like.

A letter should speak for itself, I suppose, and there's really no need of any closure beyond the signature to identify it. Once that's established everything is understood. Or should be.

'Better Than It Ever Was'

In Defence of Today's Education

By F. B. PEARCE

SIX years ago I retired from the principalship of the Nelson Central Elementary School. It is a fairly large school with an enrollment of 700 and a staff of 17 teachers. It has always had excellent teachers and a high scholastic reputation—as many people from Nelson now resident in Victoria can testify and I have no reason to believe that it has lost that high standard since I retired.

There are always those who look back with regret. I am not one of those. I enjoyed teaching in a rural school 45 years ago but I should not have liked to have taught an ungraded school indefinitely. I much preferred to end my career as a principal, and always I have been looking ahead and not behind.

Education reflects the character of society and the people it serves. This was never more true than during the depression. It was at this time that progressive education came into being. I have always believed that it was an outcome of an attempt to reinvigorate the school system at a time when teaching morale was at its lowest ebb. It was a counter irritant designed to keep teachers' minds off the misery of teaching unhappy, half-starved children.

Properly carried out, progressive education would be a very good thing indeed; but to get its best effects one needs bright children and exceptional children, which is a combination very hard to get. All through the years when they were proscribed my teachers bootlegged phonics to their children; and other teachers, through sheer inertia, dropped back to their old habit of direct teaching. At no time did the high standards of the school drop.

But the depression also struck the teachers' salaries. For 10 years mine stayed at the low level of $1,450, which was my salary as vice-principal after cuts. Those cuts were never restored and I still recall with bitterness that the trustees refused either to restore cuts or to give cost-of-living bonuses at a time when every one else was getting them.

There are many people who see something unseemly in teachers demanding good wages but it should be remembered that the Master Teacher long ago declared flatly that the laborer is worthy of his hire and teachers, too, are worthy of their hire despite the fact that many people would underpay them by classifying them as dedicated people.

Dedication has nothing to do with good teaching. I know one young teacher, described by his inspector as having a remarkable aptitude for teaching, who also has a remarkable aptitude for hard rock mining. He would just as cheerfully drive a truck, providing whichever he does is the better paid. He is quite mercenary and not in the least dedicated, yet his influence among his pupils is remarkable.

It is by no means certain that a dedicated person is necessarily a good teacher. He may be very dull and uninspiring while the young and undedicated person I am speaking of is far from that. Teaching is just the job of inculcating learning, and good teachers, like good workers everywhere, try to do the best job possible.

There ought, of course, to be better pay for the better teachers and this is something which the B.C. Teachers' Federation and the Trustees' Association are trying to establish.

I retired at the time when education was being revitalized by new ideas. I was not sorry, for I knew I was leaving at the beginning of a new era which would need younger men. There have been many changes since but I have been able to keep abreast of them through the kindness of the BCTF which sends me regularly all the material it supplies to its local associations.

Probably if I were still teaching there would be many things to which I would object, for I was never sparing of criticism, but nevertheless there is a great deal of thought being put into devising better methods of teaching today. There can be no questioning of the sincerity of purpose of teachers. They are very definitely trying to improve education and I am sure that in many ways it is better than when I retired.

Comparing the present with the past is not very rewarding. Life goes on, civilization advances and education has to go forward with them. There are changes but all are not necessarily bad or the old methods good.

In the end education is just what the pupils get out of it. During the depression few went to university, today a great many do. There can really be no doubt that education today is better than it ever was.

Jolt to Complacency

TB Is Still a Threat

By DR. E. MAHAFFEY, Director, Victoria-Esquamalt Health Dept.

WITH the discovery of new drugs for the treatment of tuberculosis, the number of deaths resulting from this dreaded disease has been dropping rapidly over the past 10 years. While this in itself is a very notable achievement in the saving of lives it has led to a certain amount of complacency and a misunderstanding of the present situation by many people.

According to the annual report published by the director of tuberculosis control, there were 670 new active cases requiring treatment diagnosed in B.C. in 1958; there were 555 cases in 1957 and 550 in 1956.

Victoria has been providing its share of these numbers. During the past year over 40 Victoria residents have been admitted to the tuberculosis hospitals in Vancouver. A substantial number have been able to receive their treatment at home thanks to the new "wonder drugs" for TB.

So it can be seen from these figures that tuberculosis will probably remain a serious public health problem for some time to come. At the end of 1958 there were registered in B.C. 21,500 tuberculosis cases. Of these less than half are considered inactive or quiescent, the remainder have some active disease and are under close supervision of the clinics and institutions throughout the province and constitute a major problem. Considering that 35 per cent of admissions to sanatoria are previously known cases that break down and become active, this group will be a considerable reservoir of problem cases for some time to come.

What can be done about it? All those who have had a TB infection or are contacts of cases still under supervision should, when requested, attend for their X-ray examination or have a check-up when they feel unwell. All others should make use of the TB Society's miniature chest X-ray, or special skin testing clinics.

The two Christmas Seal mobile chest X-ray vans will be in downtown Victoria from Jan. 18 until the end of February. The area to be covered is surrounded by the waterfront, Cook Street, Bay and Belleville. Those who live or work in that area, or happen to be in the area at that time, should do their part to stamp out TB by having a free chest X-ray.

Farming Under Licence

(From the Lethbridge Herald)

THE Farmers' Union of Alberta has revived its demand for compulsory membership, combining with it a suggestion that farmers should be licensed by the government. We may be quite sure what the pioneers who broke the sod of this province would have thought of this proposal: they would have run anyone bold enough to make it out of the country.

The FUA we suspect, does not make it out of boldness, but out of a desire to accomplish through compulsion what it cannot do by persuasion and the earning of respect.

The very mention of a farmer's licence can be expected to make those farmers who are not now FUA members more determined than ever not to join.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

WHAT utterly astonishes me in these TV westerns is the way everybody can shoot with a six-shooter. Not only the marshals and famous outlaws can whip their gats from their hips with lightning speed and always kill their man—dead as a tick—but even no-account cowhands have the same gift.

In real life, as I experienced it in the First or Mud War, and in the more recent war, hardly anybody could hit a barn door with a pistol. Pistol shooting is an art as far removed or advanced from rifle shooting as croquet is from tiddley-winks. For three and a half years of my life in that first war I carried, day and night, a trusty forty-five strapped to my midriff. And I don't recall ever having hit anything with it. I shot it any number of times, and scared the stuffing out of my immediate neighbors, some rats and, on occasion, myself. We carried pistols for reasons of morale. On rare occasions, they proved useful: but they were "belly guns." When serviceable, they were fired at point-blank range. And even then the target was usually winged, not killed.

To see these western bad men and good men, legs astraddle like little boys who have had an accident in their pants, snatching forth their guns to fire without aim, invariably getting the enemy fair through the heart, makes those of us, to the number of a hundred thousand or so still living, who carried pistols in war feel very inferior, or else derisive.

'B.C. Hydro' Commission's Short Form

Victoria Fraternity Moves Quashed

Faculty members at Victoria University have quashed moves to form a fraternity on the campus, but left the door open for such an organization at some future time.

"We just want to check very carefully into fraternities before we go ahead," explained Dr. Reid Elliott, a member of the Joint Committee on Student Affairs. "Sometimes it is easier to do these things than it is to undo them later."

A small group of university students was working on formation of a chapter of Phi Kappa Pi, an all-Canadian fraternity which has a chapter at University of British Columbia, but the faculty informed the student council that "at this time you are not to authorize the formation of a fraternity or sorority on the campus until further study has been made by the student council and faculty."

"We plan to write to colleges in Canada and the United States to find out what they consider are the advantages and disadvantages of fraternities," student council president Marilyn Ardley said.

"We want to know what administration is needed, and what conditions or qualifications they feel are necessary. The joint committee has already had one meeting to start the investigation."

The committee is made up of the principal and vice principal, two staff sponsors, and three members of the student council.

The students behind the Phi Kappa Pi movement declined to comment.

Edmonton Lowering Bus Fares

TORONTO (CP)—Edmonton's experiment with reduced bus fares outside of rush hours will be studied closely by the Toronto Transit Commission, chairman Charles Walton said Thursday.

The Edmonton Transit System will begin the one-month experiment Sunday. Residents will be charged 7½ cents for a ticket good only outside of rush hours. Regular fare is 15 cents.

Drop Trade Barriers U.S. Urges Europe

PARIS (UPI)—The United States called yesterday on Western European nations to liberalize trade and remove restrictions on the free flow of goods with "all feasible speed."

U.S. Under-Secretary of State Douglas Dillon made the appeal to the 20-nation ministerial council of the OEEC.

Europe's economic clearing house.

The OEEC, in which Canada and the U.S. cooperate as associate members, responded with a pledge to continue further trade liberalization and remove remaining restrictions and discriminations as quickly as possible.

The call for freer trade came after a pledge from Dillon of U.S. readiness to co-operate "fully and actively" in a projected, new, broad international economic co-operation which would link Europe, Canada and the United States in a long-range type Atlantic economic community.

MAYOR ELMER ROPER

Edmonton Mayor Charges 'Hysteria'

EDMONTON, Alta. (UPI)—Mayor Elmer Roper yesterday criticized what he termed "hysteria" at the city's brief to the National Energy Board hearings on gas export.

The mayor said the key and those seeking to export point in the submission was the contention that it was not enough protection for Edmonton gas consumers to simply let gas prices at the well-head be fixed by bargaining between the owners of the gas and those seeking to export it from Alberta.

Four Firms Study Sand

EDMONTON (CP)—Four oil companies have formed a partnership to attack the vast Athabasca oil sands.

Imperial Oil, Cities Service, Athabasca (Inc.), Richfield Oil and Royalite Oil will join in research to remove hydrocarbons from the black sands thought to contain as much as the total proven crude oil reserves of all the rest of North America.

Germans Bar Intolerance

BONN (Reuters)—West Germany's 10 state premiers vowed yesterday to take "every possible step" to stamp out the current wave of anti-Semitic incidents.

This followed a closed-door session of the Bundesrat upper house foreign affairs committee.

Oak Bay Police Ask More

Police of Oak Bay, whose salary scale is $10 a month below that of city police for all ranks, are seeking to keep it that way in negotiating their new contract with the municipality.

In addition, they join with the city force in an effort to get earlier extension of holidays: three weeks with pay after five years' service, and four weeks after 15 years, instead of the present two weeks for the first 10 years, and three after that.

City police are asking for an increase of about 17 per cent over present salaries.

Suicide Took 33 with Him

WASHINGTON (AP) — "A had just heard that one of the passengers carried nearly $900,000 in insurance, told a reporter: "I am convinced the explosion of a bomb of some sort was the cause of this disaster."

"It seems pretty pat that this bomb was carried into the washroom in the plane, and set off deliberately. "The evidence is very strong it was a case of suicide by bombing." The heavily-insured victim was named as Julian Andrew Frank, a 32-year-old lawyer whose home was Westport, Conn. His body was found only last Saturday, 16 miles from where the plane crashed near Bolivia, N.C., three days earlier.

Red Chinese Troupe To Appear in Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver International Festival has achieved a major theatrical coup—the Peiping Opera, China's foremost entertainment company, will appear here during the 1960 festival.

A program of mime, acrobatics, dance and costuming, the "Opera" will be the first company from Red China ever to appear on this continent.

Tisdalle Says:

Welfare Estimate Proved Incorrect

Saanich Social Credit MLA John Tisdalle last night told a party meeting that a government formula for estimating municipal welfare costs after 1958 had proved incorrect.

But he denied a charge by Saanich Reeve George Chatterton that the government was concealing its welfare figures from the municipalities. The estimating error in the case of Saanich "came to quite a few thousand dollars," Reeve Chatterton earlier this week said the "error" came to about $40,000 and that the municipality's welfare costs had more than doubled. Mr. Tisdalle said that the formula designed to show municipalities what their welfare costs would be after the government in 1958 implemented a recommendation by the Union of B.C. Municipalities had been upset by "strikes and other economic factors."

He estimated that if the government discovers that its percentage portion of welfare costs has diminished under the new formula, an adjustment would be made.

But he would not state whether or not the government was actually going to make an adjustment. He pointed out that when other formulas had proven incorrect the government had always amended them to make things right, and added "the premier has always said, 'we never give less—we always give more.'"

Reeve Chatterton was not available for comment. In the statement that touched off Mr. Tisdalle's remarks the reeve said that a Saanich welfare officer had been denied the provincial municipal welfare cost-sharing figures when he had asked for them. Last night Mr. Tisdalle said that the figures had been supplied.

Harbor Commission Planned for Nanaimo

NANAIMO — Highlight of the throne speech for Nanaimo was the news that the federal government plans to set up a harbor commission this year. Such a commission, civic leaders felt, would aid industry, tourism and the transportation service.

It will also mean the planned development of Nanaimo harbor, something which the chamber of commerce and city council have been trying to establish for more than 25 years. In the past, the harbor has been subject to "willy-nilly" development, said Capt. W. Y. Higgs, one of the chamber of commerce directors who helped draft the latest brief on the subject. Mayor Pete Maffeo was also enthusiastic about the reference made to the setting up of a commission.

TOO BIG "We haven't had proper management of the harbor up to this time... now it will come under proper management. The harbor, because of the increase in shipping, was getting too big for the city to handle," said the mayor. Chamber of Commerce president Don Cunliffe said he hoped for an early passage of the bill which would establish the commission.

THREE NAMED Three commissioners will be named, one by the city and two by the federal government. The commission will be responsible for collection of charges for berthing incoming vessels.

Appointment To Fill Seat

A vacant trustee seat on Saanich District 63 school board will likely be filled by appointment.

The vacancy was caused by the resignation of trustee Ernest Lee, one of two representatives from Central Saanich. He still had one year left to complete his term.

A second Central Saanich seat, left vacant at the end of a two year term by P. S. Lomas, has not yet been filled.

'Education Wisest Investment'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Provincial Attorney-General Bonner said Thursday the $100,000,000 British Columbia education program is one of the wisest investments the taxpayer can make.

"In this age of Sputniks you are investing not only in tomorrow, not only in B.C., but in the future of the entire country," said the attorney-general.

Big Parking Plan Set In Portland

PORTLAND (CP) — Downtown Portland, Inc., Thursday night approved a $21,512,000 off-street parking program.

It will be financed by revenue bonds issued by the city and secured by a special assessment district encompassing the entire downtown area.

Edgar W. Smith, president of the downtown area property owners group, said this was the first step in the group's plan for revitalizing the downtown core area.

LINDSAY, Ont. (CP)—The official count here showed 3,174 hunters took a total of 716 deer during the season in this area. The percentage of successful hunters was the lowest in five years.

For a Letter

275-Mile Trip To Port Angeles

The familiar TV plot which revolves around the perilous task of "getting the mail to Red Gulch" has nothing on the business of getting the Victoria mail to Port Angeles. No "pony-express" rider ever went further out of his way to avoid redskins, prairie fires, floods or snowstorms than a Port Angeles, addressed letter travels to cover the 18 miles of Juan De Fuca Strait which separates Victoria from its sister city across the border.

Best guesses here yesterday were that a surface mail letter to the American city travels about 275 miles to reach a point which Victorians with only average eyesight can see on any reasonably clear day.

To remedy this situation the tourist trade group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce will discuss at its meeting Wednesday a resolution urging the post office department to route Canadian mail over the new U.S.-owned Victoria-Port Angeles ferry Mv Cohn.

Sam Lane, chairman of the group, said mail to Port Angeles from Victoria now takes four days to reach its destination after a circuitous route which takes it to Vancouver, Seattle and Tacoma.

Local postal officials confirmed that it goes to Vancouver and Seattle but could not confirm the Tacoma section of the route. Mr. Lane said the resolution is designed not just to streamline the mail service, but also to help out the new ferry service.

Jet Expert May Retire Relative Says

A Victoria relative of Britain's noted jet designer William Edward Petter said last night he thinks the former head of Folland Aircraft Company will retire in Switzerland.

The 51-year-old designer of Britain's post-war Canberra jet bomber and Gnat jet fighter, announced yesterday he is leaving England because he is "fed up" with the aviation industry.

His brother, Gordon Petter, of 1259 Oliver, said that Mrs. Edward Petter is Swiss and that he thinks the couple will go to Switzerland. The jet designer who has visited his brother in Victoria twice in the past 10 years, resigned from the Folland Aircraft Company when it was taken over last year by the Hawker Siddeley group.

He said he objected to government policy of forming big groups from existing firms and, obliterating smaller companies.

Dying Wife Wouldn't Kiss Mate

SASKATOON—Robert Yund, 30, charged with murder in connection with the gun-slaying of his wife, Caroline, wanted to kiss her goodbye as she lay mortally wounded in the hallway of her Saskatoon home, Detective Keith Mackles testified at Yund's trial yesterday.

She turned her head away from him, the detective testified. "I put my hand on his arm and said, 'Let's go, Robert,'" and police led him out of the house, the scene of two slayings Oct. 13. Also slain was Jake Friesen, 23, of Saskatoon.

Testimony earlier showed that Mrs. Yund, 35, sought a divorce from her husband so she could marry Friesen.

SEATTLE—Dr. Francis E. Townsend, his eyes still sharp and his mind still nimble at 93, said Thursday he believes his Townsend Plan is better than the laws administered by the social security administration. The circulation of money forms the background of the Townsend Plan, which would call for pensions of $200 a month to all persons 60 years or older. The sole condition: spend it.

LOS ANGELES—The Finch murder trial had added drama yesterday despite an enforced recess with the disclosure that actor-director Mark Stevens will appear as a witness for the prosecution. Stevens will be called to testify Monday when the trial of Dr. R. Bernard Finch and Carol Tregoff resumes. They are accused of murder and conspiracy to murder in the July 18 shooting of Barbara Jean Finch, 33, the surgeon's estranged wife.

LAMBARENE, Gabon Republic — Albert Schweitzer, famed philosopher and medical missionary, yesterday celebrated his 85th birthday quietly in the jungle hospital he built in the heart of Equatorial Africa in 1913. He gave up a career as a musician and philosopher to establish his leper colony and hospital here 47 years ago.

WASHINGTON — John L. Lewis formally resigned yesterday after 40 history and headline-making years as president of the United Mine Workers. He turned his job over to aging Thomas Kennedy, former UMW vice-president. In a highly significant move, W. A. (Tony) Boyle, 56-year-old protégé of Lewis, was elevated to replace Kennedy to the number two post.

AMSTERDAM—A father here has named his son after the 12 apostles — Matthew, Mark, Luke, John, Peter, Paul, Bartholomew, James, Simon, Phillip, Thomas and Andrew—a record number for a baby, the Roman Catholic newspaper De Tijd reports. A municipal clerk refused at first to take the names, but the father, P. M. Malingre, insisted.

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Mrs. William Harris yesterday admitted it was a mistake taking her other two children to the humane shelter to select a pet for her 12-year-old son, Bill. She now has three dogs.

LONDON—Sir Oswald Mosley's Union Movement announced yesterday that it will use all legal means to defeat a boycott of South African goods called by the British Labor Party as a protest against South Africa's segregation policy.

Dike Fails, 15,000 Flee

AMSTERDAM (Reuters)—Some 15,000 persons were driven from their homes north of here Thursday by floods which surged through a breach in a North Sea dike and inundated the "waterland" region of the Netherlands.

A biting northeast wind whipped the waters of the North Sea through a 200-foot-wide breach in the dike which normally holds back one arm of the North Sea canal, Amsterdam's outlet to the North Sea.

Snow and ice hindered a rescue army of 4,000 troops and civilians battling with the ever-widening breach and trying to rescue stranded families.

PIONEER MILL
The first cotton mill in America is said to have been established at Waltham, Mass., about 1814.

from the top storeys of their homes.

There is no approach to the flooded 1,150 acres except by boat, and the area has been sealed off to prevent looting. Gas, electricity and drinking water supplies were cut off.

Local authorities are trying to find homes for 10,000 persons. An estimated 5,000 more have found shelter with friends or relatives.

But though the flood waters stood five feet deep in places, many old people were refusing to leave the top floors of their houses for fear of looting.

The raging torrent kept back rescue squads trying to block the gap. The breach grew in a few hours from 100 feet wide to more than 200 feet.

Eyewitnesses said "an endless stretch of water" could be seen from North Amsterdam, with boats moving over an area which Thursday morning was roads, fields and houses. Rafts and boats crowded with shivering women and children clutching precious belongings and pets streamed out of the area.

VIEWS of SPORT

By Red Smith

When the first heavyweight champion, a guy named Cain, was finished as a fighter he got a fast brush and wound up in a tank town east of Eden. Ever since then, this has furnished the basic plot for short stories, novels, plays, and films about boxing: the washed-up fighter, who made millions for greedy non-combatants, callously consigned to the junkpile by the vultures who picked him bare.

The first sport to have its face changed by invention of the cathode ray tube was boxing. It is recorded in the Sacred Writings of Nat Fleischer that Mike Jacobs made the first contract with a television sponsor on Sept. 26, 1944, arranging to have the Willie Pep-Chalky Wright bout three nights later piped to Philadelphia and Schenectady and relayed to service hospitals in the area.

In the next 15 years, television was a major factor in the collapse of small clubs throughout the country and the destruction of the box office for all except a few special attractions. Sponsors have invested millions in the weekly productions and, presumably, taken more millions out through sale of headache powders and hair oil.

Now it is announced that boxing is to be flung unceremoniously off the Friday night network schedules, like a beat-up fighter whose reflexes are gone. Big Business is giving the fight game precisely the same treatment the fight game has always been accused of giving to its own. Apparently sentiment is an expendable commodity in more fields than one.

Decision at Summit

According to the announcements, the decision to dump boxing was made by National Broadcasting Co. The sponsor said he liked the show and would have kept it going. Television is an insatiable medium remorselessly devouring talent, and consequently it is not possible to offer exciting matches with brand new performers every Friday. Still, the weekly work decision, there is, naturally, a good deal of speculation as to the underlying reasons. Two main points are cited.

One is that a bout of 10 rounds or less does not consume a full hour. It is prime time—10 p.m. in the Eastern zone—and, perhaps NBC could get a higher price by selling this time elsewhere, either in one chunk or two 30-minute blocks. Still, Gillette has been a big customer.

Everybody, in other words, fighters, promoters, managers, sponsors, and fans, wanted the programs to continue—everybody except NBC. It is the television industry, as represented by this big network, that is giving boxing the pitch. In the absence of a full official explanation of the network decision, there is, naturally, a good deal of speculation as to the underlying reasons. Two main points are cited.

One is that a bout of 10 rounds or less does not consume a full hour. It is prime time—10 p.m. in the Eastern zone—and, perhaps NBC could get a higher price by selling this time elsewhere, either in one chunk or two 30-minute blocks. Still, Gillette has been a big customer.

Soiled Linen Flapping

The other, and possibly sounder, theory has to do with TV's new morality, its chaste striving for a purity that is unholier understanding. The soiled linen of the space cadets has been flapping from antennae on every housetop lately, and the grey flannel suit has been replaced by sackcloth and ashes.

In their new and holy zeal, network officials may be plumb scared to associate with the fight mob, itself beset by investigations and scandal. There have been no charges of an unholy alliance between Frankie Carbo and television, but maybe the very idea of guilt-by-association is more than NBC can bear.

Meanwhile, nobody pretends that loss of a million in revenue will improve boxing's financial health. When the business first began to feel the effects of TV on the box office, many shallow thinkers argued that all of boxing's ills would be cured if the electronic dragon were slain. Nobody seriously believes now that if fights went off the networks altogether, small clubs would spring up and prosper and gate receipts soar.

Probably there would be some improvement at the box office if all fight telecasts ended, but it would be a long, long climb back to pre-television levels. Not this year, or next, will see a return to the days when Beau Jack and Bob Montgomery wouldn't take off their pants with less than $100,000 in the house.

Fighting as a medium of public entertainment has been drastically changed in the television era. The networks have sold time and sponsors have sold their products, and the people who profited above all others were the manufacturers of television sets. Thanks to Milton Berle and boxing, they blanketed the continent without contributing a penny.

Russia's Hockey Heroes

Solly, Treg, Puch

By JACK SULLIVAN

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

In North America, hockey fans know all about Maurice Richard, Gordie Howe, Jean Beliveau. In world amateur circles, the old firm of Solly, Treg and Puch are equally famous.

They are Russian hockey players who have been mainly responsible for putting the Reds on the map as a power in world and Olympic hockey since the Iron Curtain first was opened in 1954, allowing its teams out for international competition.

And Russia hasn't done badly—one world title (1954), one Olympic (1956) gold medal and two victories in five meetings against Canadian teams.

Solly—defenceman Nikolai Sologubov; Treg—defenceman Ivan Tregubov, and Puch—goalkeeper Nikolai Puchkov, will be on hand next month when Russia defends its Olympic hockey title at Squaw Valley, Calif. This name-dropping should be enough to send Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen combing the country's rinks for Olympic-calibre players.

The Dutchmen, selected to represent Canada at the Feb. 18-28 Games, know all about Solly, Treg and Puch. They met on an outdoor rink at Cortina, Italy, in the final game of the 1956 Olympics. Russia's first-string men behind the blue lines repelled everything Canada threw at them and Russia won 2-0.

It wasn't a fluke. The shut-out was Puchkov's third in the five-game round-robin final series during which he allowed only five goals, the best performance of any goalkeeper in the tournament.

One would think that Puchkov would get the rave notices. He didn't. Instead, Canadian observers on the scene went wild about Solly, a friendly, grinning 32-year-old who displayed gold inlays from the U.S. team, made up of college players, scored an upset 4-1 victory over the Dutchmen.

"Sologubov could star on any National Hockey League team," said Dutchman coach Bobby Bauer, an NHL all-star with Boston Bruins. Sports Editor Milt Dunnell of the Toronto Star agreed.

"Solly is the best two-way defenceman I have seen in a long time," enthused veteran hockey broadcaster Foster Hewitt of Toronto. "He could make any NHL team," was the tribute from Andy O'Brien, Montreal sports writer.

Tregubov also came in for some kind words and since 1956 he has been Solly's defence partner in world competition.

Solly was chosen the outstanding defenceman of the Olympic tournament and the award to goalkeepers went to Willard Ikola of the United States, a one-game wonder who played sensationally as the U.S. team, made up of college players, scored an upset 4-1 victory over the Dutchmen.

Military College 'Olympics' Planned for Royal Roads

By LARRY ROSE

Plans are now being finalized for Royal Roads of Victoria to host the 1960 "Little Olympics" of Canada's three military colleges with 108 officer cadets expected to compete in the meet scheduled for Feb. 19 and 20.

Visiting colleges will be the Royal Military College from Kingston, Ont., and College Militaire Royal de Saint-Jean, Que. Along with Royal Roads, they will compete for the coveted Claxton Cup.

The inter-college meet will feature basketball, volleyball, swimming and diving, water polo and rifle shooting. There will also be a non-competitive gymnastic display.

In addition to the Claxton Cup, presently held by Kingston, cadets will be competing for the Marshall Memorial Trophy—awarded to the individual displaying the greatest sportsmanship and ability.

The Hon. G.R. Pearkes, V.C., Minister of National Defence, has been invited to attend the meet and present awards at a tournament ball to be held Feb. 20.

Chairman of the tournament committee is Lieut.-Col. H. E. Price, vice-commandant of Royal Roads.

The annual Canadian Services Colleges meet commenced in 1949 between Royal Roads and the Royal Military College of Kingston. Quebec joined the competition in 1953.

Inter-High School Basketball League games this weekend are expected to go a long way to deciding the eight teams and their seeding for the Lower Island tournament to be held Feb. 19 and 20 at Mount View.

Three-Rink Playoff For Consols Berth After Duncan Games

By JIM TANG
Colonist Sports Editor

DUNCAN—Three rinks, skipped by Duncan's Shorty Berkey, Steve Hayhurst and Larry Marshall of Victoria ended the six-rink South Island Consols curling round-robin tied for the last berth available for the Island finals.

Duncan's Glen Harper rink and Victoria's Gar Taylor already had clinched berths on the first of two draws here last night.

The Marshall-Berkey-Hayhurst tie-up forced a playoff that began early this morning. Berkey was playing Hayhurst, with the winner to meet Marshall, who drew the bye. If Hayhurst won, the showdown game was to be played in Victoria this evening.

Taylor, Harper and the third team play in the Island finals at Port Alberni, beginning Saturday morning at 9.

BIG MATCH

Everything hung on the Marshall-Berkey match on the late draw last night. Had Berkey won, no playoff would have been necessary. But Marshall prevailed, 8-7 and Hayhurst came through with some spectacular shotmaking to defeat club-mate Taylor, 10-5. Harper finished Moore's hopes with a 6-4 victory.

Marshall scored a three-ender on the ninth end to tie the score 6-6. Berkey scored on the 10th with one but Marshall came back with another to tie it again on the 11th. Marshall could have gone ahead by counting two on that end but nudged out his own rock with his last draw.

Marshall had the shot rock at the crucial stage of the 12th, with a counter back on the eight-foot ring. Berkey had either a draw or a raise to shoot on his last rock but, in attempting the raise, just rubbed on the side of his objective.

CLINCHED BERTHS

Fourth draw of the six-rink playoff to decide the three South Island finalists clinched berths for Harper and Taylor but left a possible four-way playoff for the third position.

Setting up the possible playoff was Berkey's 10-6 victory over Hayhurst and Moore's 10-6 victory over the Marshall aggregation.

However, those results also pushed Harper and Taylor into the final, despite the fact that they were opposing each other in one of the most thrilling games of the entire playoff.

The Harper victory was a miraculous comeback story. With Taylor and vice-skip Ralph Schmidt in particular curling brilliantly, the Victoria rink shot into a 4-1 lead after three ends and still held a 5-4 margin after six ends.

Harper purposely blanked the seventh end but rolled out on the eighth end when he attempted to count one on a straight takeout. Taylor drew behind a long guard to "steal" a point on the ninth as Harper missed with his out-turn takeout.

On the 10th, Harper attempted another takeout which, if successful, would have given him two and a tie. But he was narrow and Taylor's rink went ahead, 7-4.

Harper counted a singleton on the 11th end but was in the unenviable position of being down two with last rock against him coming home.

When play came down to skips' rocks, Taylor lay three. Harper, with his first shot, an in-turn draw, pulled into the house around a long guard for second shot but curled over a bit too far to leave himself open for a takeout.

Taylor's attempted takeout went narrow and wrecked on a guard. Harper then pushed back Taylor's shot rock on the four-foot ring, just behind the tee line and lay two. Gar then went wide on his takeout, when he just had to kill one stone, and missed both Harper counters.

They played a much more wide-open extra end but the Harper crew ran into difficulty. Taylor had the only rock in the house, up front on the eight-foot ring when it came down to skips' rocks.

Harper ran him out with his first shot and Harper's rock rolled over to bite on the 12-foot ring. Taylor then drew in for shot to the eight-foot and Harper chose to pass up a freeze shot and passed the Taylor stone through and left his own stone lying on the four-foot, wide open. Taylor then tried to out-draw his opponent but his rock finished well short of the mark.

CLINCHED BERTHS

Fourth draw of the six-rink playoff to decide the three South Island finalists clinched berths for Harper and Taylor but left a possible four-way playoff for the third position.

Setting up the possible playoff was Berkey's 10-6 victory over Hayhurst and Moore's 10-6 victory over the Marshall aggregation.

However, those results also pushed Harper and Taylor into the final, despite the fact that they were opposing each other in one of the most thrilling games of the entire playoff.

The Harper victory was a miraculous comeback story. With Taylor and vice-skip Ralph Schmidt in particular curling brilliantly, the Victoria rink shot into a 4-1 lead after three ends and still held a 5-4 margin after six ends.

Harper purposely blanked the seventh end but rolled out on the eighth end when he attempted to count one on a straight takeout. Taylor drew behind a long guard to "steal" a point on the ninth as Harper missed with his out-turn takeout.

On the 10th, Harper attempted another takeout which, if successful, would have given him two and a tie. But he was narrow and Taylor's rink went ahead, 7-4.

France Retains Rugby Power; Whips Scotland

Former Daily Colonist sports writer Ian Glenday provides another in his series on the British sports scene.

By IAN GLENDAY

LONDON — Since the great Mias retired and several key players turned professional, France has expressed concern at her chances of winning the rugby union's international championship for a second straight year. Before the opening match of the season against Scotland the French side was an unknown quantity and there was optimism in Edinburgh that the home side would get away to a good start.

But it did not take the French long to prove to the 50,000 spectators at Murrayfield that they had lost none of their artistic ability and creative genius that carried them so handsomely to a well-merited championship last season.

After building up a 13-0 half-time lead, the French side was hard-pressed to withhold a determined Scottish rally in the second half. But the visitors were forced to play with only seven forwards for all but the first 10 minutes of the match and it took much of the glitter away from Scotland's desperate rally in which they had closed the gap to 11-13 at the final whistle.

The Scots were at times outclassed by a French team that included two new caps and lacked the brilliant leadership of Mias, who could transform his compatriots from an erratic and downhearted group of individuals into a well-knit and potent team of champions.

It was reported that the new captain, Moncla, was closest to his illustrious predecessor for a day and a night before the match. Whether the long briefing accomplished what was intended is a debatable point but the fact remains that the French played with enthusiasm and great spirit and did not become discouraged through the loss of a player in the early stages.

The French were at their strongest in the loose and the speed and sleight-of-hand of their forwards who controlled mid-field like a sharp-eyed traffic cop, was the deciding factor. Scotland had plenty of chances from scrum and lineout but the host forwards couldn't get possession when it mattered the most and they spent a good part of the time chasing an elusive target.

Played Exciting Rugby

The winners were not as effective in the backfield, where last season they excelled with precision passing and blinding speed. But they played exciting rugby and it is to their credit that they have tried to bring some glamor into a game that was dominated so much by slogging forward play in 1959.

France has been to rugby the past two seasons what some of the European and South American clubs have been to soccer. She has played with verve and artistry and after such a fine start at Murrayfield, where France has won only twice before, the European side must be rated a good bet to retain the title.

England and Wales, who meet Saturday at Twickenham, also present transformed lineups. The English selectors picked six new caps, brought back veteran forward Peter Robbins and surprisingly dropped Peter Jackson, the speedy wing who starred for the British Lions on their recent tour of Australia and New Zealand.

Wales selected five new caps but the selectors were in a quandary right to the end because of a serious injury problem — five leading candidates were undergoing treatment for various ailments before the team was picked.

The return of Robbins was hailed all round as a sound move. The veteran forward was surprisingly "overlooked" last season but his supporters are quick to point out that in the last 12 matches he played England scored 16 tries but he was blanked last season while Robbins was on the sidelines.

Jackson's omission was a big surprise and one that pleased the Welsh no end. Roberts, his replacement, is well known in Wales for his play with the Barbarians but even the Welsh fans will not concede that he is a better wing than Jackson.

Three of the six new caps — D. Rutherford, M. P. Weston and J. Roberts were chosen in the backfield while the first-time English forwards were P. T. Wright, S. A. M. Hodgson and W. G. D. Morgan.

The Welsh newcomers are G. W. Lewis, E. Evans, L. J. Cunningham, G. W. Payne and B. Cresswell.

Such is the peculiarity of the international schedule that the Irish have not completed their final trial, that France must now wait for seven weeks until her next match, and that the final match won't be played until early in April.

Grand National Slipping?

Since the entry for this year's Grand National was announced last week, there has been speculation that the famous steeplechase is losing its appeal. Only 49 horses — six fewer than last year and the lowest total since the war — were entered for the gruelling event at Aintree in March.

But many racing officials and owners are not unhappy about the smaller field. It will cut down on crowding conditions that have led to many casualties in the early jumps and at the same time boost the standard of racing as many owners of long-shot horses have apparently decided not to compete.

Two past winners — Mr. What and Oxo — and two well-proven Aintree specialists, Wyndburgh and Eagle Lodge, have all been entered along with an unspectacular listing of 10 Irish contenders. Kerstin, Taxidermist and Polar Flight are also listed but it is considered likely that they will pass up the March 26 classic and compete instead in the Gold Cup.

One of Britain's outstanding and most experienced referees has been severely reprimanded for his action in the strange controversial Henry Cooper-Joe Erskine heavy-weight championship bout last November.

The stewards also warned Henderson that he must strictly observe the rules in future contests. The action arose from allegations that Erskine was struck after the bell had ended the fifth round and that in the first round Cooper had not been sent to a neutral corner when the Welshman was floored.

Although Erskine's manager, Benny Jacobs won his point it cost him almost $300 for "arguing and pestering the referee in a persistent and aggressive manner."

Rangers Blanked, 6-0 By Bruins' Simmons

Boston Bruins matched their longest win streak of the National Hockey League season and Don Simmons scored his second straight shutout.

Toronto	41	19	6	16	112	44

New York	43	14	21	8	115	38

Last night's scores: Toronto 1 at Montreal 2; New York 0 at Boston 6.

Next games: Saturday: Boston at Montreal; New York at Toronto; Chicago at Detroit.

Thursday night as the rejuvenated Bruins thumped New York Rangers, 6-0.

It was the fourth straight win for Boston who haven't won that many games in a row since the first month of the season. Holding the final playoff position, fourth-place Boston now leads Chicago Black Hawks by three points.

Simmons handled 29 shots, including two breakaways, in running his shutout string to 153 minutes, 49 seconds. Simmons had a 5-0 shutout over Toronto Sunday.

Following Montreal's Jacques Plante in wearing a face mask, Simmons made brilliant breakaway saves off New York's Larry Popen in the second period and Eddie Shack in the third.

EARN'S JOB

Simmons' second shutout of the season appears to have given him the regular goal tending job over Harry Lumley. The pair had shared duties until recently.

At Montreal, the Canadiens celebrated Maurice Richard's return to the lineup with a 3-1 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs that moved them 13 points ahead of the second-place losers.

A crowd of 12,471 watched Boston score three times in the final period and hold off a late penalty to defenseman Bob Armstrong as New York attempted to snap Simmons' scoreless string.

TWO AHEAD

Bronco Horvath assisted on Armstrong's goal to move two points ahead of Chicago's Bobby Hull in NHL individual scoring. Horvath has 53 points, Hull 51 and Montreal's Jean Beliveau, who had two assists last night, 49 for third place.

Marcel Bonin, Dickie Moore and Henri Richard powered Montreal to its win. Ron Stewart scored Toronto's only goal in the second after Montreal had taken a 2-0 lead.

ROCKET ASSISTS

Richard wound up scoring at 9:32 of the final, banging in his own rebound. Brother Maurice, making his first start since fracturing a cheekbone Nov. 26, assisted on the goal.

It gave him a lifetime total of 946 points, one more than Gordie Howe of Detroit who had tied Richard the previous night. Richard is in his 18th season. Howe in his 14th.

Garden Notes

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Of all the foliage plants we grow as houseplants, I imagine the most popular is the Philodendron, and one reason for its widespread popularity is its unusual tolerance of poor light conditions. Most of our green plants and ALL of the flowering kinds need a windowsill—or a battery of fluorescent lights—but the Philodendron puts on a surprisingly satisfactory performance in those problem spots like the fireplace mantel or the built-in room-dividing planter, far removed from any window.

It is a big family—the plant explorers have catalogued more than 300 different kinds, all natives of the South American jungle—and it is possible now to buy plants in a very wide variety of size, shape of leaf, and habit of growth. There are Philodendrons that grow as vines, as small trees, and as rosette-type plants, all with exotic, tropical foliage.

The plant gets its name from two Greek words: Philo, meaning friend, and Dendron, meaning a tree—in other words, a tree-loving plant. This doesn't mean they are true parasites, like mistletoe and some orchids, living on the tissues and sap of the host tree.

It is best to water from the top, giving enough for the excess to run out the hole in the bottom of the pot, but empty the saucer as soon as the soil has finished draining. A very tiny pinch of houseplant fertilizer in the water once a week will keep the plant growing lustily.

While your Philodendron will continue to live in the darkest part of your living room, this is only because of its easy-going tolerance. To have your plant glowing with health, see that it gets a fair amount of natural daylight, although it dislikes direct sunlight. Early morning or late afternoon sun won't hurt it, but a south window at noon is a bit too much for this dweller of the dim jungles.

In nature, the plant lives in an extremely humid atmosphere, and the dry winter air of a furnace-heated home must be quite a trial to its constitution. I have noticed that a shabby, dust-covered plant will perk up and start going to town if it has its face washed once or twice a week. This sponging of the leaves, I imagine, takes the place of the frequent rain squalls of its South American home.

I don't think it is a good thing to make a regular, daily routine of watering your Philodendron. Examine the soil daily, by all means, but don't actually give any water until the soil

A Gambling Peter Gunn

If there is a strong resemblance between "Mr. Lucky" and "Peter Gunn," it is not an accident. Blake Edwards, who created Peter Gunn, also created Mr. Lucky in Mr. Gunn's image. An Ivy Leaguer, Mr. Edwards even takes the two actors, Craig Stevens, who plays Gunn, and John Vivyan, who plays Mr. Lucky, to his tailor. Very well dressed, both of them.

The differences between Gunn and Lucky, therefore, are largely those of personality and in that respect Lucky, a gambler, seems less a professional charmer, less an imitation of Cary Grant, more a real person than Gunn. However, they both have a weakness for girls, each has one special girl, and both are more or less at odds with the police while being definitely on the side of virtue.

Of its genre, "Lucky" is a darned good show. Lucky is a gambler who operates a gambling ship just the other side of the three-mile limit, making it all technically legal. To the ship come a whole motley collection of disreputables—unhappy wives, gangsters looking for a quick buck, spoiled rich girls, confidence men, and like that. You know—just the ordinary run of flotsam and jetsam you're likely to run into anywhere.

On just an ordinary evening on ship, Lucky will be looking over the suckers at the gaming tables. "Who's that?" he'll inquire.

"Mr. Midwest Oil—he's got a hundred million dollars." A minute later, he's telling someone, "You scared off the biggest loser since Hitler."

All this before the credits or the opening commercial. In other words you get a lot of glamor for your money. Vivyan is a smoothie whose acting is of the deadpan school. He's a gentleman gambler, as it were. He has a sidekick—naturally named Andiamo played by Ross Martin, who is curly-haired, suave, smiling, and a just natural born second banana with great charm.

Then there's a girl who deserves a paragraph of her very own. Her name is Pippa Scott. One of those monickers they wrap blondes in in Hollywood, except it happens to be her real name. She's a physical type girl. If you know what I mean and I think that you do. Actually, though, there is less hugging and kissing in this thing than in "Peter Gunn." In "Mr. Lucky," the guy and the girl, it has been said, look as if they had just finished all that lovemaking and had gone on to higher things—like gambling. Vivyan looks all tuckered out, conceivably from lovemaking.

Pippa—in the series she's called Maggie—usually blunders into the middle of the madcap, gets tied to a bulkhead with the others and even helps out by kicking a villain in the groin from time to time. When I was a lad, this sort of escapist fiction was provided by E. Phillips Oppenheim whose heroes generally operated in the south of France.

How anyone as amiable as Lucky, a sort of Perry Como of gamblers, gets into so much trouble is a secret known only to the writers. It takes great ingenuity, all right. On a typical day, for instance, a Greek hoodlum with a bodyguard arrives on his ship and more or less invites Lucky to lose a game of pool at $100,000 a game. Lucky sets himself to losing when some out-of-town gamblers, who know how good he is with a pool cue, arrive and start betting on him. This is the perfect Lucky predicament. He's in the middle through no fault of his own.

Merle Makes Up Mind

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Merle Oberon has declined to make a career comeback in the movie life story of comedian Helene Rubinstein, preferring her life of social hostess in Mexico City and Hollywood.

Judy Holliday is not sitting down these days. Seems her derriere was scorched when a prop-man forgot to give her asbestos pants to wear during a fire scene in "The Bells Are Ringing."

Patti Page is carrying her arm in a sling. "I burned it," she explains, "during a scene in 'Elmer Gantry.' On the sling is a diamond clip, gift of husband Charlie O'Curran."

Director Jean Negulesco, in Hong Kong for "The World of Suzie Wong" (film version with William Holden, France Nuyen and Michael Wildgen) has adopted two tiny French fillies, Gabrielle and Christiana.

Burt Lancaster is beaming because of reception in San Francisco to sneak preview of his latest film, "The Unforgiven," the last of the Hecht-Hill-Lancaster productions.

Once upon a time there were two pretty teenagers: Judy Gumm and Edna Mae Durbin. They appeared in a short at MGM. Today, Deanna Durbin, plump and prosperous, lives with her French husband in a red-tiled farmhouse 20 miles from Paris. To amuse her children and parents, Deanna currently is making recordings of Schubert, Mozart and Bach. "I will never return to my career," she has said.

Judy (Gumm) Garland's life has been unhappy and tempestuous. And she will never give up her career. For one thing, she needs the money. For another, manager husband Sid Luft believes her lovely voice should be heard by the public.

Formosa Notebook

'We'll Invade', Says Chiang

This special dispatch, first in a series, tells of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's confidence in a people's uprising against Peking.

TAIPEI, Formosa (TNS)—Casualty, but choosing his words carefully, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek predicted his Nationalist army would be fighting on the Chinese mainland "Within the next two years at the latest."

The tired but healthy-looking Chiang—73 last October—made the statement while he, Madame Chiang and I had tea and cakes in his luxurious mansion on the outskirts of Taipei.

As we talked the Gimo leaned back in his armchair beside a crackling fire and closed his eyes. He seemed old and burned out.

But when he talked of returning to the mainland he was suddenly a young man—determined and confident.

"There will be a popular uprising on the mainland against Communism," he said. "And when it happens we will go and help the people."

"The uprising could happen at any minute—but certainly within the next two years at the latest. We are ready..."

Speaking through an interpreter he calmly added that he didn't think the United States would object to his "liberation invasion."

"Didn't the U.S. free the slaves a century ago?" he asked. "And aren't we only going back to free our own people? From a strictly humanitarian point of view they couldn't object... they will help."

But Chiang made it clear his Nationalist army on Formosa wouldn't invade until the people of the mainland revolted.

Military observers here say Chiang's army totals 600,000 men. And it is becoming more obvious that his aging young commanders are growing anxious for a showdown with the enemy.

Chiang doesn't look his age. But he is careful with his health. Madame Chiang—who occasionally joined our conversation—seems to worry and fuss over the president like a kindly nanny, or the curator of a priceless piece of merchandise.

In a corner of the dimly lit, over-sized room a two-star air force general, a colonel, and the deputy director of information watched the God-like Generalissimo like teen-agers watching Elvis.

Before the Chiangs entered the room, the brass scurried going back to free our own waiting for their beaus. They chatted anxiously in hushed whispers and repeatedly advised me how to butter up madam and how not to annoy the president.

On both walls flanking the fireplace hung tapestry paintings the size of large living room rugs. Foot-deep pink pillows were on several sofas, and the ornately carved tables and chairs in the room looked like things of art rather than things to use.

Madam Chiang entered first and walked directly over to me and introduced herself. A playful shepherd dog seemed unawakened by the atmosphere.

The Generalissimo seemed shy, and coughed gently as we shook hands. He insisted that I be seated first by the fire, and asked me my impressions of his country.

He answered questions with little enthusiasm unless a topic roused his interest—like the forthcoming summit meeting "United States is being hood-

Chiang's reasons were vague but fiery. He called the summit meeting "cleverly arranged by international Communism."

He continued: "Russia knows there are differences among Western nations. The summit meeting is simply a trap for the West. Especially this talk of disarmament—dangerous and no good for the free world."

"Russia has everything to gain, and the West everything to lose."

"It is all part and parcel of the Communist method to take advantage of free people. They know Americans have an antipathy for global war and exploit this."

"Strength is the best way to meet the Communist threat—the only way. Without strength there is no defence... disarmament would be fatal... it is what Russia wants." His voice trailed off.

Chiang predicted that during 1960 Red China would continue being aggressive in the south. But with continued external expansion would be increased internal trouble.

"The big difference this year from last will be the rising opposition of the Chinese people on the mainland," he said.

"The people themselves are not in favor of being used for Communist external expansion. They will revolt."

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (UPI)—Thirteen men remained perched on crumbling ice floe Charlie in the Arctic Ocean today and the air force went into action to remove them before it disintegrated.

"The floe is badly shattered and ready to break up at any time," said Brig. Gen. Gordon H. Austin, commander of the 11th Air Division at Ladd Air Force Base near here, after a flight to the floe. "It is in very bad shape."

Withdrawal of men and equipment began a week ago. The floe has since been reduced in size to a mile by one and one-quarter miles, less than one-fifth its size when disintegration began.

Weather this morning on Charlie was 24 degrees below zero.

Corruption In Union

Sign of Times

VANCOUVER (CP)—An official of the international Teamsters Union told a group of employers Thursday the corruption discovered in his union is a sign of moral decay in the world.

Vice-president Einar Mohr of San Francisco told a luncheon at the annual convention of the Truck Loggers' Association of British Columbia:

"There has been a bit of decay in our moral fibre. It seems to be the sporting thing to do to find a way to cut corners."

"This is considered part of the game. Many lawyers get reputations for finding loopholes."

"The theory is not how to play the game but how to beat it. I think rash criticism leveled at our organization and at labor was part of the times."

In a press conference after his address he said the world had adopted a false sense of values. Too many things had become more important than such things as education and philosophy. The position of the family in a neighborhood depended too much on the dollar.

Girl, 7, Saved Sisters

HAZELTON, B.C. (CP)—A seven-year-old girl is credited with saving the lives of her three younger sisters when fire destroyed their home Wednesday night at the Indian village of Kitwanoon, about 25 miles north of Hazelton in northwestern B.C.

The mother, Mrs. Ernest Angus, was visiting a neighbor and her husband was away when the fire broke out. It is believed to have been caused by the explosion of a gasoline lamp.

Nancy Angus, awakened by the smoke, wrapped her sister Hester, 3, in a blanket and carried her to safety. Five-year-old Lou ran to another room, but Nancy got her outside, then returned for 17-month-old Betty Jean.

Just as Nancy got her sisters to safety, the fuel tank in the house blew up. There is no fire fighting equipment in the village and the home burned to the ground.

Toronto Gallery Cancels Loan of French Paintings

DR. WILLIAM DALE

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two major art thefts from Vancouver galleries have scared off a Toronto collector who planned to exhibit modern French paintings here.

"This is exactly the repercussion we feared after the theft last weekend," said Dr. William Dale, director of the Vancouver Art Gallery.

Dr. Dale said Laing Galleries of Toronto cancelled its offer to loan the French paintings after thieves took eight religious paintings and 14 ikons from the gallery last weekend.

FIRST ROBBERY

The $40,000 collection of an Edmonton exhibitor was stolen from the University of British Columbia gallery in November.

A reward of $1,500 for information leading to the discovery of the 22 paintings stolen Sunday was offered Thursday, but Ian Forbes, Toronto art critic who owns 12 of the stolen ikons, fears the works may already be in the United States.

"It is a disgrace that the Vancouver Art Gallery could not afford to have its premises properly guarded," he said, but added he has complete faith in the management of the gallery.

Record Budget

WINNIPEG (CP)—Premier Duff Roblin reportedly will introduce a record budget of about 124,000,000 during the session of the legislature which begins next week.

Reports say that, although government department budgets have been pared to the bone, proposed spending will be about $4,000,000 higher than last year. There will be no increase in taxes.

Annual Meeting of Shareholders The Royal Bank of Canada

James Muir declares recent experience contains lessons for combating future booms and slumps

Leadership and self-discipline needed to maintain trade position, living standards and economic growth

"It is not commonly recognized," declared James Muir, Chairman and President of The Royal Bank of Canada, at the bank's Annual Meeting in Montreal on Thursday, January 14th, "that the banks have given a demonstration of timely and effective support of the current anti-inflationary monetary policy."

Reviewing the necessary and effective decisions and actions taken by the monetary authorities during the recent credit "freeze and thaw" period, Mr. Muir said, "Before indulging unduly in self-congratulation, it may be well to reflect on some lessons which recent experience holds for the monetary authorities and for the chartered banks in combating future booms and slumps."

LESSONS TO BE LEARNED
"The first lesson is that there is need for improved communication between the Bank of Canada and the chartered banks. Of course, communication must be a two-way street. I have long deplored the passing of bankrate in Canada from the realm of communication in this sense to a mere shadow, floating 1/4% above the market rate for three-month Treasury bills."

"In recent months, the Bank of Canada has assured us that the money supply will probably rise modestly in recession, stay relatively constant in recovery and boom times, and rarely, if ever, fall. In our present situation, for example, this should mean that the current ease in chartered-bank cash will not prompt a sucking up of the excess, since that would mean a significant reduction in the money supply. The clear implication is for the banks to use their cash for investment or, when needed, for increased loans."

"Now for the second lesson. Regardless of the clarity of communication itself, there is still some ambiguity in the data communicated. For example, through its control of chartered bank cash reserves, the Bank of Canada controls the money supply, allowing of course for any lags in chartered bank adjustment. There are, I believe, two major ambiguities in our concept of the money supply."

AMBIGUITIES
"The first ambiguity is that the money supply as generally defined omits credit created by other than the chartered banks. For example, it omits credit created by Finance Companies, Caisses Populaires in Quebec, Credit Unions and Provincial Savings Offices in other provinces. Trust Companies doing a deposit business, and all varieties of department store charge accounts."

"The implication of this ambiguity for policy is simply this, that monetary control is inhibited and may at times be ineffective, as well as inequitable, in controlling the money supply in this broader sense. Rather than extend the range of specific government regulation, it might be worth while to require that these lenders (who, in effect, do a banking business so far as the total supply of money and credit is concerned) should, like the chartered banks, be subject to appropriate cash, or other, reserve requirements."

"The second ambiguity in our concept of the money supply concerns that well-known but elusive factor, the 'velocity of circulation.' Clearly the inflationary potential of any given money supply depends

BANKS MEET TIGHT MONEY CHALLENGE

"Denied the use of the price system to allocate credit in accordance with market forces," said Mr. Muir, "banks were forced into the thankless task of rationing credit as best they could among their customers."

"But they did more than this. The chartered banks supplied the credit needed to finance the subsequent revival. To do this, they sold securities, mainly government bonds, sometimes at a cost in terms of yield rates well above even their maximum lending rate, in order to raise cash to increase loans to deserving borrowers, large and small, by almost $1.2 billion between Sept. 30, 1958 and Sept. 30, 1959."

"The savings of the general public, who bought the bonds, were channelled into new loans to business, farmers and consumers. There was no creation of new money, only the channelling of savings into loans through the mobilization by the banks of the existing money supply."

not only on the money supply as such but also on its activity; that is, its velocity of circulation. Our mechanism of monetary control is defective in that it ignores the velocity dimension, and this defect forces us to resort to rough-and-ready, trial-and-error expedients by way of correction. Monetary control would be greatly improved if we could devise a practical formula for reserves against deposits that would take account of changes in the velocity of circulation."

"The third lesson of recent experience is that the course of monetary control would run much smoother if the chartered banks were enabled always to implement Bank of Canada policy by allowing their lending rates to reflect changes in market rates, or under the present rate-fixing system, changes in bankrate. 'The market for credit,' said the British Radcliffe Committee, 'is a single market' and the Governor of the Bank of Canada has recently expressed a similar point of view. But in a single market only one price can rule for any given commodity. It is absurd, therefore, for bank lending rates to be subject to price control while other rates by other lenders are allowed to reflect market conditions."

"However, if chartered bank lending rates were made more flexible most of the difficulties could be avoided without abolishing the maximum rate principle. For example, a 'minimum' ceiling, set at the present 6 per cent, could be made adjustable upward when necessary to a level not more than one percentage point above the 91-day Treasury bill rate or (the same thing) 1/4 of a percentage point above bank rate. Such an arrangement would greatly ease the banks' problems of allocating credit in a tight money situation."

"There would be no 'tight money,'" said Mr. Muir, "if the price were right. Instead, those willing to pay interest at current market rates would get the funds, those unwilling to pay these rates would postpone expansion until the price of funds became more favourable."

Loans increase despite restrictions

F. M. Sedgewick, General Manager, reported that due to heightened business activity, loans in all categories and sizes were in strong demand throughout the year and despite the necessity of adopting restrictive measures from time to time, a sizable increase had taken place, in this department of the bank's business. "It is interesting to note," said Mr. Sedgewick, "that the number of our borrowers in Canada increased by approximately 45,000 during the year."

Capital funds of the bank now exceed $256 millions and assets stand at more than four billion dollars. "Our depositors now number well in excess of three million," said Mr. Sedgewick. "This includes a very substantial percentage of the Canadian depositing public—a fact which pleases us greatly. It is our aim to compete aggressively for continued growth in this field."

ACTIVITIES ABROAD
Referring to the Royal Bank's extensive system of branches in the Caribbean area and South America, Mr. Sedgewick mentioned that seven new offices had been added to the overseas system during the year. New main office buildings were nearing completion in Jamaica and the Dominican Republic and major additions are underway at a number of other points. "We have an important chain of branches distributed throughout most of the Western Hemisphere countries," said Mr. Sedgewick. "Our Managers there are fluent in the language and well versed with local conditions and customs. We are well equipped to assist exporters and we invite those who have a real interest in new trading opportunities to come to us and enlist our aid."

TRADE POLICY
Referring to the forthcoming meeting of the member nations of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), Mr. Muir said: "It is paradoxical, but nonetheless true, that the economic resistance in Europe seems now to pose some kind of threat to our increasingly easy North American way of life. Meanwhile, prosperity and increased efficiency have made European nations more receptive to free trade, including the reduction or removal of war and post-war exchange controls. The present conciliatory attitude of the Europeans provides an opportunity for bold action to turn the new developments into means to free trade on a broader basis for the benefit of all members of GATT. At the same time, Canada in particular must pay attention to recent developments in Latin America. Current moves to form a Latin American common market and a regional trading group in Central America may pose additional problems but they also create opportunities. It cannot be emphasized too strongly that the removal of trade and exchange-control curbs in Europe and the slow awakening of Russia and the Far East mean the creation of new and exciting opportunities to exploit entirely new post-war markets."

"I believe," concluded Mr. Muir, "that Canadians have the courage demanded by the march of events in the 1960's and the will to achieve the even richer promise of decades still to come. With our material blessings, these qualities are all we need to make Canada a leader and an example to all the eager young countries—in Latin America, in Africa, in Asia—which even now are, like us, striving to meet the great problems, and to achieve the even greater rewards, of a sustained, balanced, healthy economic growth in a tough competitive, but, let us fervently hope, an essentially peaceful economy of nations."

Speech from Throne

Voting Right To Be Given All Indians

Federal Elections To Be Open to All

OTTAWA (CP)—The right to vote in federal elections will be extended to all Canadian Indians in legislation to be introduced by the government at the new session of Parliament.

The throne speech, read at Thursday's opening ceremony by Governor-General Vanier, also said the Commons and Senate will be asked to re-establish last session's joint committee on Indian affairs.

Between 50,000 and 60,000 of Canada's 80,000 Indians of voting age would be affected by the proposal, a subject for several years of bills introduced by private members.

At present four categories of Indians have a vote in federal elections on reaching the age of 21. They are war veterans and their wives, Indians living off reservations, Indians in the Yukon and Northwest Territories where there are no reservations and Indians on reservations who agree to pay income tax on money earned on the reserve.

Under the proposed legislation — an amendment to the Indian Act — all other Indians of voting age on reservations will be granted the franchise.

Indians now have the right to vote in provincial elections in British Columbia, Manitoba, Ontario and Nova Scotia. About 60 per cent of Canadian Indians live in the four provinces.

at stimulating production, will be set up at the new session of Parliament.

The 21st department, forecast in the Speech from the Throne read at the opening Thursday, will be a full-fledged ministry though it may not have a separate minister at the outset.

For a while, it may be under the wing of Resources Minister Alvin Hamilton, who for more than a year has been pushing the idea.

While forests are under provincial government ownership, authorities said Thursday there is no federal intention of infringing on the provincial field.

personal income tax collections instead of the 10-per-cent share they signed for in 1957.

6. Set up an alternative arrangement for federal university grants—a move aimed at meeting Quebec opposition to the federal payments. It will offer provinces increased leeway to collect their own corporation income tax, with the federal government halting its grants payments where this is done.

7. Revise the Civil Service Act, with a special Commons committee set up to study the changes.

8. Establish new harbor commissions at Nanaimo, B.C., and Oshawa, Ont.

The throne speech said the new forestry department will be concerned with use and conservation of Canada's forests.

It's understood the new department will bring all forestry activities of different departments under a single ministry.

VOTING AGE

Extension of the federal franchise to all Indians will affect between 50,000 and 60,000 of the total 80,000 Indians of voting age.

The throne speech referred to last year's discovery of oil and gas in the Yukon, and said a score of exploratory wells now are being drilled in the north.

The speech also forecast a bill to give "added status and responsibility" to the territorial councils. Officials said this will involve increasing the size of the five-member Yukon council, but that no change is envisaged in the size of the Northwest Territories council which has five appointed and four elected members.

North Saanich Supports TCA

The Sidney and North Saanich Chamber of Commerce will support Trans-Canada Air Lines' bid to retain the Victoria-Vancouver-Seattle triangle run.

One member suggested an airline which would draw aircraft from as far east as Montreal when a transportation emergency arose as in the case of the ferry strike two years ago was worth supporting.

Sounds good! Logical, too! You see the normal job of the kidneys is to remove excess wastes and acids — so often the cause of backache — from the system. Dodd's Kidney Pills stimulate the kidneys in this function and so may bring you that welcome relief from backache they have many others. Try just 3-a-day. Ship That 'Grew' 20 Feet Finishing Right on Schedule

The provincial government ferry Mv Sidney is a ship that has grown 20 feet since she was launched last fall.

The provincial government ordered an extra 10-foot platform added to bow and stern of the double end-loading vessel to accommodate landing ramps in new ferry terminals

at Swartz Bay and Tsawwassen.

The new ferry is lying at the Victoria Machinery Depot plant on the Outer Wharf where workmen are completing the job of outfitting the vessel in time for sea trials scheduled to begin in late February.

The Sidney—now 350 feet in length with a 74-foot beam which makes her the widest vessel ever built on Vancouver Island—is scheduled for delivery in March, just 12 months after the keel was laid.

The Sidney and her sister-ship Tsawwassen which is being built at Burrard Dry Dock in North Vancouver will inaugurate the government's mainland ferry service in the spring.

Harold Husband, president of VMD, said the yard's work force stands at 500 but added that when the ferry is completed a drop to 250 is seen.

At that time there will be only one shipbuilding job in progress at VMD, the hull of the new destroyer escort Saskatchewan, and outlook for further contracts remains bleak.

Average work force in the yard last year was more than 700, with a top of 1,000 men

during outfitting of HMCS Terra Nova, commissioned last June.

Mr. Husband said the ferry job was "right on schedule" and added that in order to complete a $3,000,000 job of this kind in one year a shipyard must have a team of highly skilled workers.

"Our skilled men are capable of turning out a high class job of shipbuilding, the equal of work done anywhere else in the world," he said. "But we must have work to keep our team together."

The provincial ferries are each capable of carrying 106 cars and 475 foot passengers.

Head-On

Cow, Car Crash

A panicky Ayrshire cow was knocked off its feet in a head-on collision with a car on the Patricia Bay Highway at 5.15 last night. The car apparently got the worst of it.

Lieut. John K. Kennedy, 1725 Beach Drive, driving towards the city, was coming up over the crest of a hill when the cow being herded along the opposite side of the road ran in front of the car, Saanich police said.

About $500 damage was done to the front of the car and the cow was knocked off its feet but later was able to limp back to the barn with its owner, Colin Campbell, 5920 Patricia Bay Highway, police said.

Seeks Nomination

Announcing last night that he would seek a Conservative nomination in the Victoria riding, city lawyer, Monty Drake said he has always believed the present government's policies to be unsound and "certain events of the last few years have served only to strengthen this opinion." Conservative nomination meeting in Victoria is scheduled for Feb. 26.

Retirement, Another Blow

'Loss' of City Judge 'Deplorable' Says Bar

Possibility that Victoria's B.C. Supreme Court judge would be transferred to Vancouver was termed "deplorable" last night by the executive of the Victoria Bar Association.

In a resolution passed unanimously at the executive meeting, the association empowered its president, J. G. McIntosh, "to approach the attorney-general and other authorities in the administration of justice with a view to insuring that at least one justice be appointed to reside in Victoria judicial district in future."

The meeting was originally called after a proposal that all B.C. Supreme Court judges reside in Vancouver.

Another blow to the move to let Victoria retain a resident judge fell yesterday in a speech from the throne in parliament.

Cost Limits Practical Engineer Shows

The city's parking-and-mall plan is still "sound and within what appear to be practical cost limits," City Engineer James Garnett says.

His review of the plan, sought by city council as a result of the year's delay while it was being fought by J. Donald Smith, M.L.A., was submitted to council yesterday by public works committee without comment or recommendations, for study until the next meeting.

FINDINGS CITED

He finds that: The View Street facility and its malls "is not only correctly located but of top priority for the solution of our downtown congestion problem."

FIRST PROJECT

This first project in the proposed program will now cost $959,500. (Although the ratepayers of Victoria passed a $1,000,000 bylaw for it 13 months ago, estimate of the cost at the time was $875,000.)

From commencement of initial design of this project to completion of construction would take 12 months; allowing for possible legal, financial and property-acquisition problems, 18 months.

SEEK MANDATE

After seeking legal authority to expropriate property for this purpose and to finance it with the backing of a local improvement district, council should seek a mandate from the voters, make financial arrangements, acquire the properties needed, proceed with planning and construction, obtain new parking meters and increase the rate, and provide for a reserve fund to finance subsequent phases from parking and meter profits.

PARKING NEED

Second priority in the long-term program should now be given to a parking facility at the Black Ball terminal on Wharf, with a short pedestrian mall to link it with Government.

THIRD PRIORITY

Third priority should be given to a facility near the present courthouse, when the area is redeveloped. Property between Johnson and Pandora west of Blanshard should be purchased and used for the time being for rented monthly parking.

BUS TERMINAL

A parking facility in connection with a Cathedral Hill auditorium site should be planned, and "urgent thought" given to development of a bus terminal at the same place.

Plans should be made for further development of the market-firehall facility and a

300-car facility in conjunction with civic-centre developments. "It is our considered opinion," Mr. Garnett says, "that development of all the facilities referred to, together with the further development anticipated at the Eaton's site and the new Hudson's Bay facility, will adequately serve the downtown core. Traffic increases necessitating a parking capacity beyond this limit would be a requirement in excess of the capacity of the area to accept, even with a one-way street system."

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, public works chairman, said in submitting the report that his committee was doing so quickly "so the public will know we have no intention of letting the downtown area die in any way. It is urgent that the public and all firms considering development outside the city know that council are alert and doing something as quickly as possible to bring relief from traffic and parking problems to the heart of the city."

Cod-Eater Helps Out Policemen

An unknown Saanich resident came to the aid of a couple of thankful policemen last night.

Between 20 and 30 half-frozen codfish were found on the road at the intersection of Quadra and Beckwith at 6.30 p.m.

Police had resigned themselves to cleaning up the mess when a man came along and offered to dispose of them. "They're good enough to eat," he told police.

By Mayor

Auditorium Committee Selected

Mayor Percy Scourrah has picked a committee to look into the question of building a civic auditorium, he told city council yesterday.

Ald. M. H. Mooney wanted council to send a representative to Premier Bennett to ask him about terms of his pledge to assist Victoria in building an auditorium.

But Mayor Scourrah squashed the proposal — "Now Ald. Mooney, you authorized me to appoint a committee. I just completed it yesterday, and that's the business of the committee. We shouldn't interfere."

The committee, he said later, will include Aldermen Arthur Dowell and Austin Curtis from the council and three non-council members whose names will be announced when arrangements are complete.

Soldier's Trial Postponed

Stomach 'Flu'

Adults, Babies Hit But Not Students

Call it flu if you like, lots of Greater Victoria adults and babies—but not schoolchildren—are having it.

Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy, Victoria-Esquamalt medical health officer, isn't calling it flu. "This ailment," Dr. Mahaffy calls it, is striking in the form of a cold and turning quickly into a brief stomach upset, which keeps most victims at home for a day.

At the baby clinics, she said, she had heard of a number of babies having it, and apparently "a fair number of adults" are suffering from it. But "rather strangely" it isn't attacking schoolchildren to any degree. "We may get it in the schools, but I hope not."

No direct connection is seen by Dr. Mahaffy between "this ailment" and the "Q-flu" which has disrupted community routine in various part of the United States, and which appears from reports to be of longer duration although mild. The Q stands for question mark because the virus responsible hasn't been identified.

And she doubts that there is a connection between the ailment and an increased influx of patients with respiratory ailments into hospital.

So does Dr. E. N. Boettcher, medical superintendent of St. Joseph's Hospital, where the influx of respiratory cases has raised the waiting list for beds to 150.

"Undoubtedly there is some contribution from flu," he said, "but we haven't noticed any direct bearing."

Wiring Check Made in June

A Victoria man whose rooming house was damaged by fire Dec. 8 has denied reports that he did nothing about repairing faulty wiring in the house until approached by the fire inspector.

"I had an estimate from a contractor on the cost of repairing the wiring June 21," James Crawford, 4407 Leney Place, said yesterday, "and the fire department didn't approach me until July 9."

Faulty wiring was listed as the cause of the fire Dec. 8 at his rooming house at 400 Bay Street.

New Plan Involves 26 Acres

Waterworks committee's storm-raising proposal to try to sell the B.C. Electric 76 acres of Thetis Lake property came to naught yesterday in city council.

It was withdrawn, and instead, the committee will consider a company proposal to pay the city $200 an acre for a power-line easement through about 26 acres, with the property retained as park land, although cleared of obstructions to the line.

PART OF LENGTH

B.C. Electric had originally asked for an easement running along the northeastern edge of the Thetis Lake property for part of its length but then cutting through an angular projection. The committee's proposal, which brought strong protests from conservationists, was that "inasmuch as your committee does not look upon such encroachments on park lands with favor, the strip of land requested by the company, together with the triangular piece of park adjoining the southerly end of that strip, be offered for sale outright to the company."

WITHDRAWN

But assistant city clerk Morran Waller informed council that the recommendation had been withdrawn by the committee chairman, Ald. Austin Curtis, who had left the meeting, and Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow explained that "there is a B.C. Electric proposal in, and the chairman wants a meeting to discuss it. It will come before the next meeting of council."

Another Thetis Lake proposal — to seek to obtain legislation enabling the property to be treated as park rather than watershed — was referred back to parks committee for further study.

LACKS POWER

Parks chairman Ald. M. H. Mooney explained that with the property in its present category, the city lacks power to prevent picking of flowers, dumping of garbage "or anything else" unless it is likely to contaminate the water.

But City Solicitor T. P. O'Grady advised council that "to use it as a park pure and simple is to expose it to taxation by the provincial government and Saanich."

If persons were caught dumping garbage in it, as watershed property, they would be liable to civil action as trespassers, he said, as they would be if they dumped garbage in its front garden. If the property were a park, the offence could be made a crime.

"You would still have to catch them," observed Mayor Percy Scourrah. "How would you be better off?"

LAKE COWICHAN — A boy pleaded not guilty in juvenile court here yesterday to a charge of being an accessory during the theft of a car. The case has been remanded until Tuesday for the summoning of witnesses.

Flowers Defy Chilly Weather

Chilly weather can't stop flowers from growing in Victoria, even if it is winter. Here Mrs. Joan di Castri, 3920 Cherrilee Crescent, displays the pink carnations, one in bloom and two in bud; now growing in her garden. — (Colonist photo.)

MILDRED NAULT

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: My wife and I are in our 30s. We've been married 10 years and have four swell kids. We get along perfectly except for one thing.

I happen to be a guy who loves my home, my wife and my kids. I don't care a hoot about bowling with the boys, playing cards, stopping for a beer at the tavern or spending Sundays on the golf course. I'm not interested in hunting or fishing either.

My idea of fun is to hang around the house, run the vacuum sweeper, play with the kids, help my wife polish furniture or wax floors. I even enjoy cooking a little.

My wife says she wishes I'd go out like other men and not be such a "hot-house flower," as she puts it. She claims none of her friends have husbands like this and I'm sort of a freak in the crowd. Do you think I'm crazy or what?—ODD MAN OUT.

Dear Odd Man Out: Stay right where you are. Don't move a muscle. We want to take pictures. You are indeed one in a million. If your wife doesn't appreciate a gem when she sees it then SHE'S crazy—not you.

Years of Bickering

Dear Ann Landers: How much are parents supposed to take anyway? Our daughter, Ruth, is 24. We've given her love, religious training and luxuries that most girls never heard of. She's had the privilege of a fine finishing school, two trips to Europe and four years in an eastern college.

Ruth is now making an excellent salary. She spends every dime on foolishness. We don't charge her board and room, naturally, but we think she should at least buy her own clothes and not charge everything to us.

We gave her a convertible on her 22nd birthday. She charges the gas and oil. When I want her to drive me somewhere she can think of 100 excuses. When I ask her to bring home a coffee-cake she tells me I owe her 50c.

Now she would like her own apartment and thinks we should pay her rent. The years of bickering have been hard on my nerves. If she left I'd feel better. I wish I could find words to tell her. Can you help?—DOORMAT-MOTHER.

Dear Doormat: You've found the words, but you're telling them to the wrong person.

Ruth is spoiled, selfish, inconsiderate and grabby. She's never learned how to give because she's always been on the receiving end. The only thing she's had to do is take, and now she's an expert at it.

Tell your daughter she has 60 days to find an apartment. Suggest a roommate to split expenses. Make it clear she's on her own. Not only will you feel better, but she will too.

Choose a Church

Dear Ann: I was burned up when your criticized people for going from church to church every Sunday. You seemed to feel they were trying to evade their financial responsibility.

Mrs. Barnes Noble Grand

Installation of the newly-elected officers of the Carmel Rebekah Lodge took place recently at a meeting in Odd Fellows Hall. Mrs. R. M. Barnes became the new noble grand.

Also installed were Mrs. G. E. Bone, vice-grand; Miss Irene Barnett, recording secretary; Mrs. J. H. Sinclair, financial secretary; Mrs. H. Booth, warden; Mrs. V. J. Bond, conductor; Miss Margaret Gower, pianist; Miss Ruth King, chaplain; Mrs. R. W. Rogers, inside guardian; Mrs. R. C. Shepherd, outside guardian; Mrs. M. Forde, right supporter to noble grand; Mrs. W. T. Smith, left supporter; Mrs. C. Lewis, right supporter to vice-grand; Mrs. W. A. Heller, left supporter; Doreen Burkholder, flag bearer.

Mrs. Mary Hahn, district deputy president, was installing officer. She was assisted by Mrs. R. Brown, Mrs. D. Long, Mrs. Ena McCabe, Mrs. W. Farquhar, Mrs. E. Keiser, Mrs. Nettie O'Neill, Miss Frances Porter and Mrs. Marie Penman.

Mrs. Margaret Hobbs was presented with the past noble grand's jewel by Mrs. Hahn. Following the ceremony refreshments were served under the convenship of Mrs. Gower.

'Bobby Cape' Fashion

Fabrics Cast In New Roles

NEW YORK (UPI)—Some fabrics for spring add up to a lot of fabrication.

Silks are labeled worsted because they are woven to look like that smooth-finish wool. Wools are dubbed chifon when they're so filmy they need a lining for modesty. Or they're called linen when they're woven to look like that fibre.

Pique, once a ribbed cotton, now also is a ribbed silk. Silk and dacron are blended into a tweed for suiting. Chantilly lace is dyed into a plaid, of all things. And even striped cotton ticking is cast in an off-space role. One designer uses it for cocktail and dinner dresses.

One characteristic—lightness is universal for spring, no matter what the fabric name. Designers brag about four-ounce wools and featherweight tweeds. Fabrics are both textured and flat in surface.

Checks and plaids—small, medium and large—run through the collections which New York couture members are showing this week for visiting fashion reporters. And cotton gingham, pin-checked, gets a glamor treatment with all-over coverage of sequins.

Prints never have been prettier, or more plentiful, with soft misty color and artistic design. These include small geometrics, all-over florals, abstracts, tone on tone, and some conversation makers—theatre ticket stubs, French calendar dates and seaweed.

Bongo Drums Beat

NEW YORK (AP)—You could hear the beat of the bongo drums as New York's spring fashion showings turned into a jungle jamboree.

Nettie Rosenstein, famous as the mother of the indispensable "little black dress," went wild Thursday with cheetah prints, shown in both silk and cotton versions, in dresses, coats and ensembles.

Then came Donald Brooks, designer for Townley, who brought down the house with his python-printed-chiffon-evening-gowns, shown in both green and yellow. Earlier in the day Larry Aldrich had injected a primitive note to the goings-on with his tiger-printed chiffon dance dress.

In addition to the jungle theme of the day's fashions, Eva Rosenkrans, designer for Mrs. Rosenstein, introduced a white chiffon evening gown with solidly beaded bodice in a vivid field-flower motif. This latter costs about as much as a new car.

The Grenelle-Roberts collection features a group of bold black-and-white prints in abstract designs, suggesting modern art. The Townley collection also featured screaming colors, such as a combination of neon pink and poison green. These, says young Donald Brooks, the designer, are selling like hot cakes. He thinks maybe it's in revolt against the little black dress.

Home Best School For Little Child

By EDITH HENRY

There are many homes at this time of year with a small boy or girl spending the last few months before entering school.

Let's look at these children with a view to preparing them for their new adventure.

They are all different, some big, some little. A few will be nearly a year older than others on account of the rule of age admittance to school. You will find children advanced even beyond their years as well as those who are average or slow. They will have different interests. They may be TV fans or out-of-doors lovers. They have different reactions to criticism or disapproval. They may be over-sensitive. All these differences and more, yet they are going to face the same school experiences.

It is well to assess your child in the last pre-school year. You may be able to build on his strengths, fortify his weaknesses.

How can you help him to develop mentally?

ONE WAY

The school likes to teach him arithmetic, reading and writing in its own way. This does not mean that you need allow your child to go mentally hungry. A bright child or an older child needs especially the challenge of learning.

Give these little pre-schoolers a wealth of experiences. They can learn to count objects, to judge between few and many, a short distance and a long, a light weight and a heavy. This is all valuable background information for arithmetic.

Reading takes on more meaning according to what the child has seen and heard. Help him by stories, pictures, visits, trips, people, to see and hear many things.

He needs a wider vocabulary. Give him new words to use.

Help him to notice differences—a black dog, a frisky dog. Let him take part in family conversation. One kindergarten teacher was concerned about children who never offered to speak!

LITTLE TALKS

Let the child retell stories from his books or TV. He can memorize short verses, make up little talks for daddy about his day's activities.

Give him a chance to use his mind for thinking. "Would you like this or that?" you ask him. "Can you go upstairs, get the book I was reading and put it in the bookshelves?" you suggest.

Not at school yet? But indeed he is, in the best school the world has ever known—his home.

Hobble Skirt Strictly Dior

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Dior hobble skirt which the firm launched last fall in Paris hobbles right into its New York collection for spring.

But this leg-fettering fashion remains strictly Dior. American designers skip right past it with a preference for tunics and a move to fuller skirts.

Dior-New York in general leaves the hemline where other designers have, covering the knees. But one pouf tunic hobble rose to mid-knee when the model walked. Another hobble—red silk sheath—was so narrow at the hemline the model minced her way in and out of the showroom.

Residing in Sidney

Mr. and Mrs. Hans Ellehammer Rasmussen, who were married recently in St. Andrew's Anglican Church in Sidney, are now making their home there. The bride is the former Avis Margaret Bosher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bosher, Arbourfield, Sidney, and her groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Ellehammer Rasmussen, Hillerod, Denmark.—(Photo by Harry Filion.)

Bride Carries White Bible

The Chapel of the Royal Jubilee Hospital was decorated with yellow and white chrysanthemums and candles recently for the wedding of Evelyn Kaye Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albin Nelson of Creston, B.C., to Mr. Lester Melvyn Benton, son of Mrs. K. Benton of Trail, B.C., and the late Mr. D. E. Benton.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and Rev. J. Rogers officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. L. Tyson played the organ and Mr. R. A. MacKenzie sang during the signing of the register.

A short gown of white brocade taffeta over layers of net was worn by the bride. Her single pearl necklace adorned a high neckline. A tiara matching her dress held a waist length veil and she carried a single orchid with a white Bible which was a gift from the groom.

Mrs. Marilyn MacKenzie was the bridal attendant. Her cocktail length dress of bronze taffeta was covered with nylon organza. The fitted bodice with a large collar billowed into a gathered skirt. She wore bronze accessories and carried a bouquet of yellow rosebuds and white carnations.

Mr. John Robertson was best man with Mr. William Stockall acting as usher.

Oysters Need Care In Cooking

By LOUISE MOORE

"A loaf of bread, the walrus said,
Is what we chiefly need.
Pepper and vinegar beside,
Are very good indeed.
Now, if you're ready,
oysters, dear,
We can begin to feed."
The walrus and all oyster connoisseurs seem to agree that sauces and such spoil the delicate flavor of this succulent mollusk. They prefer a dressing of vinegar or lemon, salt and pepper—perhaps a drop or two of tabasco—or Worcestershire, nothing more.

EXCELLENT FOOD

The oyster, as anyone planning meals should know, is an excellent protein food full of good nutrition. And since it is all edible flesh—no waste, gristle, bone or fat, it fits into any food budget, and at the same time provides dishes of unusually delicious flavor.

Because of its soft gelatinous pulp, the oyster requires care in the cooking. The main thing to remember is—cook only until edges curl—about 3 minutes. And at not too high temperature or you'll wind up with anything but that fine epicure flavor.

MIX WELL

In making dishes with a cream or milk sauce such as oyster stew or casseroles, have the sauce completely mixed and cooked before adding the oysters. Then cook only to heat through and no longer.

To serve 6 you'll need three dozen oysters in the shell—a quart of shucked oysters or two No. 1 cans (7½ oz.).

OYSTER STEW

Melt a scant ¼ cup butter in saucepan and add 1 pint oysters. Cook 3 minutes or until edges curl. Add 1 quart whole milk, 1 tsp. salt and pepper to taste and have it freshly ground, ½ tsp. paprika. Bring almost to the boil and serve at once with salted crackers. I like to crush the old-fashioned crackers over the top of the stew for extra good flavor.

OYSTER SPECIAL

Melt ¼ cup butter or margarine in large saucepan. Add 2 medium onions sliced, 1 clove garlic sliced, 1 sliced carrot and a stick of celery with leaves, a sprig of parsley and a whiff of powdered thyme. Cover and cook 10 minutes.

Add 2 cups milk, 1 cup heavy cream, 1 cup liquid from oysters or the liquid with enough milk to make the cupful. Heat until piping hot and then strain into another saucepan. Add 2 cups or 2 dozen oysters and cook until they curl at edges.

Add extra seasoning to taste and just before serving add a few drops tabasco and Worcestershire sauce. Makes 4 servings.

PANNED OYSTERS

Wash and drain 1 dozen large oysters and season with salt and pepper. Melt 2 tbsp. butter in skillet and when brown, add the oysters and turn until nicely browned. Serve on hot buttered toast. Add 3 tbsp. cream to pan and stir to mix with remaining butter and when oysters are heated through pour over the oysters and serve at once.

INFANT TEETH

An infant's first visit to the dentist should be made at about three years of age to guard against possible defects.

Achievement Plan Response 'Amazing'

Response of high school students to the junior achievement plan being put into operation by the Junior Chamber of Commerce has been "amazing," a Jaycee official reported yesterday.

"We got answers from 250 students just by putting a notice on school bulletin boards," he said. "We didn't even have to go to the schools and sell them on the idea."

Under the plan, which is operating successfully in many parts of the United States and Canada, groups of 20 students from companies by selling shares, produce, publicize and sell their products for eight months, then liquidate.

City businessmen finance the plan at the start and act as "silent partners" for the duration of the business. It will take about $1,000 to get each business started the first year of operation, and about $300 per year from then on.

Tomorrow at 9:30 a.m., Roy Twyman, director of junior achievement for western Canada, will speak at a Jaycee meeting in the Chamber of Commerce board room.

Saved Baby

Phyllis DeCosimo, Toronto model, is credited by police with saving a seven-month old baby from the irresponsible hands of a 10-year-old boy. The baby, daughter of Mrs. Leonard Tindall, was taken from its carriage outside a store while Mrs. Tindall was inside shopping. Miss DeCosimo later saw a boy on the street nearly 10 blocks away carrying a baby upside down. She said he told her he had found it on the street and was taking it home to his grandmother.

Chan Didn't Disrupt Parliament Opening

OTTAWA (CP) — Elusive Weldon Chan didn't disrupt Thursday's formal opening of the new session of Parliament. But the RCMP constables and plainclothesmen were placed on duty on Parliament Hill and in the Centre Block following rumors that Chan planned to give himself up during the opening ceremony.

The rumors apparently stemmed from a letter last week to Immigration Minister Fairclough from Harry Fan, Chan's Vancouver lawyer.

'Fighting' Leader U.S. Need

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) said yesterday the next president must bring a "fighting mood" to the White House and not just issue "ringing manifestoes . . . from the rear of the battle."

Without saying so specifically, the announced candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination left little doubt that he felt he was the man for the job.

Kennedy told the National Press Club in a prepared speech that the winner of this year's presidential election "must be prepared to exercise the fullest powers of his office — all that are specified and some that are not."

Lava Spews 350 Feet

Volcano Erupts

KAPOHO, Hawaii (UPI) — Kilauea volcano erupted with a fiery blast of lava Wednesday night just hours after 300 persons were removed from this nearby village. Lava spouted 350 feet into the air.

The outburst occurred in an abandoned sugar cane field a mile and one-half north of here — in approximately the same place where the volcano began an 89-day eruption on Feb. 28, 1955.

A stream of bubbling lava a half mile long lit up the Puna area with a red glow but seismologists at nearby volcano observatory said the flow was away from populated areas. Lava was spouting 350 feet high at the crater.

Gov. William Quinn flew here from Honolulu to study the situation. He will decide whether or not to declare a state of emergency, which would enable him to strengthen the force of a dozen national guardsmen who are at Kapoho on a voluntary basis. The eruption had been expected for several days. A series of minor earthquakes — which usually indicate building pressure — were recorded at an increasing rate during the period.

Winning Contract

South's hand does quality for a forcing bid — although of the minimum variety.
After all, North might not be able to respond with four or five points, yet game at hearts or no-trump could still be cold.
After the opponents had cashed the first two diamonds, declarer won the third round of diamonds by trumping. He then led two top hearts, followed by the king of spades. Having the heart ten on the board for an entry to dummy's spades, South hoped to be able to get back to sluff his club losers. But West was wide awake. Pouncing on the spade king with his ace, he returned his last heart, and removed dummy's entry before South could cash the spade jack. South now had to overtake the jack to get to North's hand, and thus got only one club discard.

Can you spot South's error? His plan was quite sound, but he erred in cashing the second high heart.
By taking only one round of trumps, before leading the spade king, the defence is made helpless. South will reach dummy at the right time with the heart ten, and throw his two losing clubs on the queen-ten of spades.

Saanich Man Admits Kicking Police Officer

A Saanich man pleaded guilty in Saanich police court yesterday to two charges of assaulting a police officer. Malcolm C. Quaite, 481 Boleskine, was remanded to Jan. 19 for probation report and sentence.

Cpl. Leslie Ledson of Saanich police told Magistrate William Ostler that at about 6 a.m. Jan. 1 he and Const. Norman Baker accompanied Mrs. Donald Quaite, sister-in-law of accused, to his home to get her car.

Before the car could be moved, Cpl. Ledson said, Quaite pulled out the ignition wires, said, "To hell with you!" to the officers, and started a fight with both of ficers. During the struggle Cpl. Ledson was kicked, suffering injuries.

In city court yesterday Hans Hegenbart of Victoria, charged with assault causing bodily harm to a young woman on Dec. 23, changed an earlier plea to "guilty."

Court was told the dispute followed an office party, and developed when accused struck the young woman on the head, knocking her down, then kicked her head.

Accused was remanded to Jan. 19 for a probation report and sentence.

Indians Plan Conference

CHILLIWACK (CP) — British Columbia's Coast and Interior Indians plan to hold their first full-scale conference here Feb. 5.

The Coast Indians will be asked to ratify a brief drawn up and approved by Interior Indians and now in the hands of the parliamentary and Senate committees on Indian affairs.

Liberal Disputes Strachan Claim

Esquimalt Provincial Liberal candidate George Whitaker has challenged Opposition Leader Robert Strachan's statements that the CCF is the only party with a policy on power.

Mr. Whitaker pointed out that at the last Liberal convention a power policy was adopted to the effect that "all the great hydro-electric resources of our province, in the future, must be developed rapidly by the government to provide low cost power for the consuming public and industry."

Mr. Whitaker was critical of government secrecy on the Wenner-Gren northland development plans.

He suggested a new policy—that electrical energy should be used for stationary industry and domestic heating, and that fossil fuels such as coal, oil and gas, which are limited and exhaustible should be reserved for mobile power and emergencies.

Murder Charge Against Dean

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Dr. George H. Mickey, scholarly Dean of the Louisiana State University graduate school and internationally-known biologist, was arrested yesterday on a warrant charging him with the murder of attractive Margaret Rosamond McMillan, 38, biology professor at the university.

Deputy Sheriff J. B. Kling Jr. announced that he and another deputy made the arrest of the 49-year-old dean at 3 p.m. yesterday.

The action was taken on a warrant signed by Baton Rouge parish district attorney J. St. Clair Favrot, charging Mickey with murder in the bludgeoning of Dr. McMillan just before midnight Saturday on a lonely road near the Mississippi River.

The announcement hit the academic community of Louisiana State University—which has some 10,000 students on a campus on the edge of town—with bombshell impact. The dean, a tall, rangy Texan, was a popular figure on the campus. He was prominent as a biologist in the atomic energy program and has lectured internationally on genetics.

Dr. McMillan met Dr. Mickey at Northwestern University, where in 1955 he directed her in writing her thesis that won her a doctorate. Beside teaching at the New Orleans branch of the university, she had spent a few evenings a month in the Baton Rouge laboratories studying the possibilities of using algae in oxygen regeneration for men in space capsules.

LIVED FOR HOUR
The announcement of the arrest was made in the basement of the parish courthouse where Dr. Mickey was remanded to the four-storey jail at 5:32 p.m. and held without bond.

Dr. McMillan's body was found at 6:40 a.m. Sunday, lying in a massive stain of blood on a lonely gravel road. A coroner said she had lived for perhaps an hour after her skull was crushed by 13 blows from a heavy narrow instrument.

Missionary: 'Have Sting, Need Target'

TOKYO (UPI)—Rev. Stephen F. Bayne, on his way to London to head the advisory council on missionary strategy of the Anglican Church, described his job this way:

"I am rather like a mosquito in a nudist camp. I know what I ought to do, but I don't know where to begin."

Panama Provokes U.S. Rift

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The State department and the army are sharply split over whether to let Panama fly her flag in the U.S.-controlled canal zone.

Negotiations between the army and the department have been going on since December when President Eisenhower said after Panamanian riots that Panama deserved some "visual evidence" of her legal sovereignty over the canal zone.

Robert H. Knight, deputy assistant army secretary for international affairs, has been meeting with Undersecretary of State Livingston T. Merchant. But they cannot agree on what form the "visual evidence" should take.

Peace Power Sale Assured by Spring

VANCOUVER (CP)—Peace River Power Development Company expects to have contracts signed by the end of March or early in April for sale of its initial production proposed in plans for development of hydro power on northern British Columbia's Peace River.

Company president W. C. Mainwaring told reporters this Thursday at a press conference.

Mr. Mainwaring said also that export of Peace power is not included in the company's plans which call for an initial expenditure of $375,000,000 to produce about 1,000,000 horsepower in 1968.

LITTLE DIFFICULTY
He added that Canadian, British and United States underwriters have assured his company that once the contracts for sale of initial production are signed, little difficulty will be encountered in raising the funds necessary to finance the project.

The company's proposals for development and marketing of the Peace hydro power, contained in nine volumes of reports compiled during the last three years at a cost of $5,000,000, now are before provincial government agencies.

The company has said it will begin initial construction this year if government approval is given these plans.

Mr. Mainwaring, who previously has released little information concerning the marketing aspects of the company's report, discussed this and various other aspects of the project Thursday.

He said negotiations have been going on for many months with B.C. Electric Company, the publicly-owned B.C. Power Commission and other prospective customers concerning contract commitments. By the end of March or early in April, he said, Peace River Power Development will have worked out the rates at which it can deliver power in 1968 to B.C. Electric and the Power Commission.

He said negotiations have been carried on without any hitches with these two firms.

END OF MARCH

Asked directly if he would say when he expects contracts for purchase to be signed, he said "by the end of March."

Questioned concerning export of Peace power—once thought to be an essential to the project's going ahead—Mr. Mainwaring said:

"Our whole proposal is based on no export."

He said the original idea was to bring the first power into production by 1966, two years earlier than now is anticipated. At that date, export would have been essential to make the project economically feasible. However, in view of the difficulties involved in attempting to obtain permission to export, the company set back its plans by two years.

This move, Mr. Mainwaring said, removed the need for export because by 1968, if the forecasts of those in the energy field are correct, the British Columbia requirements will take the entire initial production from the first-stage dam.

Snow, Killing Cold Sweeps South to Tunisia

LONDON (Reuters)—Heavy snow, biting cold and strong winds swept from Scandinavia to North Africa Thursday with at least three persons reported frozen to death, and 15,000 in flight after a dam broke in Holland. (See Page 8.)

Snow even fell in parts of Algeria and Tunisia, where a 60-mile-an-hour gale uprooted trees and damaged power lines. Across the Mediterranean in Italy, a 50-year-old man was found frozen to death near Milan. In the Tuscan Hills, north of Florence, police fought their way through heavy snow to bring food and medicine to an isolated village. In the Apennines, many villages were reported cut off. The first snow in three years stopped trains near Cosenza in the toe of Italy. Paris had its coldest day since 1918 with a reading of 12 degrees. Planes took off hours late after thawing out engines and most of the country was gripped in the cold wave. Austrian winter resorts reported bitter cold and snow up to seven feet deep in some areas. The Swiss resort of St.

Moritz reported a reading of 24 degrees below zero. Trains ran late and many automobiles had to be dug out of snowdrifts in Hungary. Three inches of fresh snow hit Berlin where 94 traffic accidents were caused by slippery roads.

Belgium had its third snow of the winter and temperatures were well below freezing. Holland was plagued by a high wind and bitter cold. In Britain, a snowstorm halted traffic along the south coast. Conditions in the straits of Dover and the English

Channel were reported the worst for years, with shipping at a virtual standstill. Two persons were reported frozen to death in Denmark. A ship gripped by ice hit a bridge in North Jutland and icebreakers tried to keep harbors open.

The federal government's proposal to give Indians the vote, greeted with anger and dismay by bands in Montreal and Edmonton, was welcomed by Indians here—provided it doesn't mean loss of other rights. (See All Aboard by G. E. Mortimore on Page 2 and story on Page 14.)

"The federal vote was on top of the list in our brief to the cabinet last July," said Robert Clifton of Courtenay, president of the Native Brotherhood of B.C. "But we want it on the same basis as we have the provincial vote—without losing our rights as Indians."

According to the current Indian Act, a waiver to such rights must be signed before the right to federal vote will be given.

Chief John Albany of Songhees band agreed with Mr. Clifton:

"We want it and will accept it if it does not change our present status. If it does, we won't have anything to do with it."

"This is a trick to rob us of what we have left," said Matthew Lazare, chief of the Caughnawaga Indian council.

"Our birthright is being threatened. Why should we vote in a foreign nation?"

"This will endanger our liberty and rights. Those we treasure more than life."

He said several Indians in Caughnawaga have the franchise but few of them vote.

"We detest voting."

John A. McComber—known as Chief Poking Fire—said "Many Indians are illiterate and unable to vote. This doesn't do us any good at all. What we want is education."

The leader of Alberta's 18,500 Indians said they are "absolutely" opposed to getting the vote at the present time.

Albert Lightening of Hobbema, past president of the Indian Association of Alberta, said Indians want no change made in their status until after presentation to the Dominion government of a brief now being prepared.

From Throne

'Speech' Stresses Men and Nature

OTTAWA (CP)—A government program putting fresh emphasis on human and natural resources, with creation of a new ministry of forests and extension of the vote to all Indians, was placed before Parliament Thursday. (See also Page 14.)

New regulations on far north gas and oil development will stress Canadian ownership of these resources, and the territorial councils of the north may get another small nudge toward provincial status.

MAIN POINTS

Those were among the main points of the government's legislative program for the new session of Parliament disclosed in the speech from the throne read at the session opening.

The relatively short legislative agenda announced by the government had some good news for old age pensioners and recipients of war veterans allowances who want to live outside Canada. Plans are to ease the present restriction which, in the case of pensioners, requires them to live in Canada at least six months of the year to collect payments.

Youths Admit $3,000 Ruin In School

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two youths Thursday pleaded guilty to breaking into a Vancouver high school last December and causing $3,000 damage. Robert Holt and Gordon Kennedy, both 17, were remanded in magistrate's court to next Friday for a pre-sentence report. Both were former students of the school.

A third youth is being tried separately in juvenile court here.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker's Bill of Rights will be introduced again, and Parliament will be asked to move quickly to approve federal aid for Prairie farmers whose grain crops were snowed in last fall.

The throne speech came under immediate criticism by Opposition Leader Pearson for its absence of any reference to defence.

"It is another indication that the government has no policy on this vital matter," Mr. Pearson said in a statement.

Federal payments for Trans-Canada highway work will be extended beyond the present cut-off date of May, 1961. Highway agreements expire at the end of this year but work on the road in some provinces, especially British Columbia, Ontario and Newfoundland, is not complete.

Other measures forecast will:

1. Provide a uniform retirement age of 75 for all federally-appointed judges in superior, county and territorial courts.

2. Put more money in the government's housing fund for direct mortgage lending, depleted last fall.

3. Amend combines legislation dealing with business mergers, with one aim to "protect the interests of small business firms."

4. Provide a three-year extension, to the end of 1963, of federal gold mining subsidies at their present rates. This costs around $12,000,000 annually.

5. Continue until March 31, 1962, the present tax-exempt deal with the provinces allowing them a 13-per-cent share of

Ontario Expects Second Ice Storm

TORONTO (UPI)—Ontario hydro and police officials readied their forces Thursday night for the third and possibly the worst ice storm of the winter.

The weather office in Toronto predicted rain would start falling early Friday and the fall would turn into freezing rain shortly afterwards. Twelve hours of rain was forecast for the metropolitan Toronto area.

S. J. Willis School 'Trespassing'

Pay Us for Our Land Council Tells Board

Attempt for Recompense Will Be a Test Case

Victoria will try to obtain recompense for the city-owned S. J. Willis Junior High School property on which the school board, for the last 10 years, has been "trespassing."

This decision was made by council yesterday on the basis of a report from City Manager C. C. Wyatt and City Solicitor T. P. O'Grady.

The attempt to force the Greater Victoria school board to pay for the property will be a test-case, Mayor Percy Scurrell said; if it is successful, Victoria may seek payment for other city-owned property used by the board.

In other action yesterday, council also:

• Went on record, despite objections from Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood, as regarding a new city hall of at least 50,000 square feet, on at least 1½ acres, as desirable.

• Endorsed donating up to $125,000 over a period of five years toward St. Joseph's Hospital expansion as the city's share, on a 1961 population basis, of a Greater Victoria grant of $300,000. Payments will begin after the city has finished paying Royal Jubilee Hospital a similar sum, in 1962.

Transferred in 1947

Reviewing the S. J. Willis situation, Mr. O'Grady said that although the school had been planned before the Greater Victoria school board was formed in 1946, the property was transferred to the city by the province in 1947 in exchange for city-owned Belleville Street land.

Permit for the construction of the school was issued by the city in 1949.

Under provincial legislation, he said, it was "the plain duty" of the Greater Victoria school board to acquire title to the land before starting construction and "it hasn't been done to this day."

He said the case has become "simply one of trespassing."

He noted that in January, 1959, the minister of education had suggested the matter should be settled amicably.

Mr. Wyatt recommended seeking compensation for the land, and Mayor Scurrell said it would be at the value of the land when the Greater Victoria school board took it over.

Often Scoffed At

"I've always taken the stand that they were trespassing," said Ald. M. H. Mooney, "and I've been scoffed at many times."

Ald. Elmer McEwen doubted that the city would be successful—"If I had free use of a piece of property for 10 years, I think naturally I would be given title."

But Mayor Scurrell said he knew of a case of garage built on an old abandoned highway, being moved off it by

He joined Ald. McEwen and Rev. J. L. W. McLean in voting against seeking recompense.

Ald. Edgewood's objections to saying a new city hall was desirable without knowing the cost and where the money was coming from vexed Mayor Scurrell.

A Desirable Thing

"There's no proposal to construct a city hall," the mayor said. "The resolution just says it's a desirable thing, and suggests that we need 50,000 square feet. We've got to start some place. For heaven's sake, I can't see anything wrong with that."

Ald. Elmer McEwen voted with Ald. Edgewood against the resolution. He maintained it was too nebulous and the city ought to establish a fund for a competition for plans.

Council referred to "the solicitor or police department" a complaint received by Ald. Curtis about music being played over a public address system at Quadra and Pandora, which had bothered a clergyman at 3 a.m. and interfered with a communion service on a Sunday morning.

Invited by the society promoting conversion of Craigdarroch Castle into a museum and tourist attraction to take out a membership, it asked finance committee to look into financial aspect of other accommodation for the school board.

It asked the B.C. Retired Municipal Employees of Greater Victoria to suggest individual cases of retired city employees on low pensions who might be considered for compassionate help, but declined to approve a blanket increase in superannuation payments to those on small pensions.

'Fantastic' Weapon Enables Russia to Cut Manpower

MOSCOW (AP)—Nikita S. Khrushchev said Thursday the Soviet Union is so strong it is cutting the number of men in its armed forces by almost one-third and relying upon the greatest firepower rockets and inter-continental ballistic missiles—ever possessed by any nation.

And more awesome power is to come, the Soviet premier told 1,300 deputies of the Supreme Soviet parliament.

"The central committee of the Communist party and the Soviet government can inform you, comrade deputies, that though the weapons we have now are formidable weapons, the weapon we have in the hatching stage today is even more perfect, even more formidable," Khrushchev said.

"The weapon which is being developed—and is, as they say in the portfolio of our scientists and designers—a fantastic weapon."

Khrushchev did not elaborate on the "fantastic" weapon in his address, but he said that "now it is quite clear that the United States of America is not the world's most powerful military power."

WASHINGTON (UPI)—

President Eisenhower yesterday ordered an immediate study of increasing federal spending to speed development of super booster rockets for the U.S. space program.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—

The 2,693-ton German ship Marmara, with a crew of more than 20, radioed Thursday night that it had struck a mine and needed help.

The ship was off the West German island of Borkum in the North Sea.

Bootleggers Padlocked

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two premises in downtown Vancouver against which convictions under the Liquor Act have been obtained were ordered padlocked Thursday by Magistrate Oscar Orr.

The magistrate made the ruling after the registered owners, lawyer Dugald Donaghy and John Cross, said they were not opposing the action.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—

Atomic scientist Ralph E. Lapp said that Nikita Khrushchev's "fantastic" new weapon may be an "orbital H-bomb" that could be stationed in space and fired or recalled on command.

Among more than 500 persons who attended funeral services at Christ Church Cathedral here were Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross, Attorney-General Robert Bonner and Education Minister Leslie Peterson.

Victoria-owned tug Cambrian

Salvor yesterday lost a week-long struggle to save a leaking, storm-battered, crippled Panamanian freighter.

The 8,900-ton Ss. Gambler plunged to the bottom 800 miles east of Japan, after wallowing powerless in heavy seas and slowly sinking bow-first.

The Gambler was on her way from Baltimore to Kobe, Japan, with 8,000 tons of scrap iron when she ran out of fuel, encountered foul weather and started taking on water through a leak in the hull.

PUMPS, FUEL

The Cambrian Salvor put three small pumps aboard the freighter as well as 10 tons of fuel for her engines. Sudbury II carried pumps which might have swung the balance.

The tug is now headed for

its Yokohama base with survivors.

Sudbury II, which was racing to assist her sister tug, was still one day away when the freighter went down. The Sudbury is now on her way back to Victoria.

Blood Clinic
Sets Mark
In Nanaimo

NANAIMO — The city's first three-day blood clinic achieved a record total of 757 pints of blood by closing time Wednesday.

The previous record, set at a two-day clinic about 18 months ago, added 754 pints to the "bank."

The city's second clinic for 1960 will be held in the summer, announced co-ordinator John Benham on behalf of the Canadian Red Cross.

DUNCAN — Victoria architect John di Castri will address the monthly meeting of Vancouver Island section of Canadian Institute of Forestry, at the Tzouhalem Hotel Friday evening. His topic is "Future Trends in Architecture."

NANAIMO — Highlight of the throne speech for Nanaimo was the news that the federal government plans to set up a harbor commission this year.

Such a commission, civic leaders felt, would aid industry, tourism and the transportation service.

It will also mean the planned development of Nanaimo harbor, something which the chamber of commerce and city council have been trying to establish for more than 25 years.

WILLY-NILLY — In the past, the harbor has been subject to "willy-nilly" development, said Capt. W. Y. Higgs, one of the chamber of commerce directors who helped draft the latest brief on the subject.

Mayor Pete Maffeo was also enthusiastic about the reference made to the setting up of a commission.

TOO BIG

"We haven't had proper management of the harbor up to this time... now it will come under proper management. The harbor, because of the increase in shipping, was getting too big for the city to handle," said the mayor.

Chamber of Commerce president Don Cunliffe said he hoped for an early passage of the bill which would establish the commission.

THREE NAMED

Three commissioners will be named, one by the city and two by the federal government. The commission will be responsible for collection of charges for berthing incoming vessels.

DUNCAN — Fire caused an estimated $1,500 damage to a house owned by newly-elected school board chairman George Whittaker last night.

The house, three miles northeast of Duncan on Herd Road, is occupied by an employee on Mr. Whittaker's farm, Van Aert and his family including five children. No one was home at the time of the blaze.

Walls in the kitchen and front room were damaged heavily before Maple Bay volunteer firemen brought the fire under control.

Charges 'Well-Founded'

IWA Backs Gibson

PORT ALBERNI — Former MLA Gordon Gibson's assault on the provincial government for the plight of small timber operators was described as "well founded" by officers of Local 1-85 of the International Woodworkers of America yesterday.

The union got in some licks of its own.

"Our members in some of the smaller operations are penalized by the fact that their employers cannot obtain long-term contracts for logging rights from holders of tree farm licenses," said a statement from the local.

NO GUARANTEE

"A small operator who must move from place to place seeking these short-term jobs cannot guarantee his employees steady employment. For the contractor, himself, the situation is equally bad because situations of this kind make it impossible to guarantee payment on equipment that he must buy from time to time."

"Public working circles, we were told, were designed to give the smaller operator a degree of independence in so far as timber bidding and cutting rights were concerned. We can only assume that as more and more tree farm licenses gobble up more and more public working circles that the smaller operator is going to find it harder to stay in business."

"We oppose the present licensing methods, but if the present government is going to continue guaranteeing large companies a permanent supply of timber through tree farm licenses, then in some manner smaller employers must receive a more definite guarantee of steady work for their men and machines."

Ship That 'Grew' 20 Feet Finishing Right on Schedule

The provincial government ferry M.V. Sidney is a ship that has grown 20 feet since she was launched last fall.

The provincial government ordered an extra 10-foot platform added to bow and stern of the double end-loading vessel to accommodate landing ramps in new ferry terminals

at Swartz Bay and Tsawwassen.

The new ferry is lying at the Victoria Machinery Depot plant on the Outer Wharf where workmen are completing the job of outfitting the vessel in time for sea trials scheduled to begin in late February.

The Sidney—now 350 feet in length with a 74-foot beam which makes her the widest vessel ever built on Vancouver Island—is scheduled for delivery in March, just 12 months after the keel was laid.

The Sidney and her sister-ship Tsawwassen which is being built at Burrard Dry Dock in North Vancouver will inaugurate the government's mainland ferry service in the spring.

Harold Husband, president of VMD, said the yard's work force stands at 500 but added that when the ferry is completed a drop to 250 is seen.

At that time there will be only one shipbuilding job in progress at VMD, the hull of the new destroyer escort Saskatchewan, and outlook for further contracts remains bleak.

Average work force in the yard last year was more than 700, with a top of 1,000 men

during outfitting of HMCS Terra Nova, commissioned last June.

Mr. Husband said the ferry job was "right on schedule" and added that in order to complete a $3,000,000 job of this kind in one year a shipyard must have a team of highly skilled workers.

"Our skilled men are capable of turning out a high class job of shipbuilding the equal of work done anywhere else in the world," he said. "But we must have work to keep our team together."

The provincial ferries are each capable of carrying 106 cars and 475 foot passengers.

Health Unit Blueprinted

LADYSMITH—Carl J. Battell was named chairman of the Kinsmen Club's building committee which is sponsoring construction of a new $40,000 health centre building for the region.

Other committee members are Edward Hall, Jack Tukham, E. F. N. Robinson, Herbert McKeen, George Oliver, Bob Smith and Kinsmen president Douglas Matson.

Tenders will be called for construction of the two-storey building, to be erected on High Street next to the United Church hall, as soon as plans being completed by the Vancouver architectural firm of Thompson, Berwick and Pratt have been approved.

LADYSMITH—Alex Smith was returned for his third term as chairman, and Percy Wilcox for his second term as vice-chairman at inaugural meeting of District 67 school board.

Secretary-treasurer R. W. Ovenden reported that the minister of education has approved the appointment of W. J. (Pete) Seaton as trustee for the Ladysmith two-year term.

Members of the board voiced grave concern at the meeting over the lack of capital funds for building purposes to add space to Chemainus High School.

LADYSMITH—The board of trustees of the Ladysmith General Hospital were hosts to 65 guests at a new year dinner given at the hospital this week.

LADYSMITH—The Little Theatre Group will repeat Philip King's three-act farce "See How They Run" on Jan. 30 for benefit of Ladysmith United Church building fund. Kenneth Weeks will again direct.

The retarded children's school will receive the proceeds from three one-act plays to be presented on the Little Theatre stage Feb. 6. Marjorie Walker's young pupils will present the Pied Piper of Hamelin, and the Forest of Arden. John Atkinson will direct the humorous play "John Brown's Body," put on by the Little Theatre.

28 City Skaters to Try For Spot in Ice Capades

About 28 Victoria skaters will try today to win themselves a place in the Ice Capades troupe now appearing at Memorial Arena.

Tryouts are scheduled at 4 p.m. and immediately after tonight's performance.

Another sellout crowd is expected for tonight's show and for tomorrow afternoon's 1.30 matinee. There are still good seats available for tomorrow's 5.30 and 8.15 performances, and arena manager Joe Dukowski said last night that if they sell at the current rate an all-time attendance record will be set for ice shows at Memorial Arena.

Cost Limits Practical Engineer's Review Shows

The city's parking-and-mall plan is still "sound and within what appear to be practical cost limits," City Engineer James Garnett says.

His review of the plan, sought by city council as a result of the year's delay while it was being fought by J. Donald Smith, MLA, was submitted to council yesterday by public works committee without comment or recommendations, for study until the next meeting.

He finds that The View Street facility and its malls "is not only correctly located, but of top priority for the solution of our downtown congestion problem."

This first project in the proposed program will now cost $38,300. Although the ratepayers of Victoria passed a $1,000,000 bylaw for it 13 months ago, estimate of the cost at the time was $875,000.

From commencement of initial design of this project to completion of construction would take 12 months; allowing for possible legal, financial and property-acquisition problems, 18 months.

SEEK MANDATE

After seeking legal authority to expropriate property for this purpose and to finance it with the backing of a local improvement district, council should seek a mandate from the voters, make financial arrangements, acquire the properties needed, proceed with planning and construction, obtain new parking meters and increase the rate, and provide for a reserve fund to finance subsequent phases from parking and meter profits.

Second priority in the long-term program should now be given to a parking facility at the Black Ball terminal on Wharf, with a short pedestrian mall to link it with Government.

THIRD PRIORITY

Third priority should be given to a facility near the present courthouse, when the area is redeveloped.

Property between Johnson and Pandora west of Blanshard should be purchased and used for the time being for rented monthly parking.

A parking facility in connection with a Cathedral Hill auditorium site should be planned, and "urgent thought" given to development of a bus terminal at the same place.

Plans should be made for further development of the market-fresh facility and a 300-car facility in conjunction with civic-centre developments. "It is our considered opinion," Mr. Garnett says,

"that development of all the facilities referred to, together with the further development anticipated at the Eaton's site and the new Hudson's Bay facility, will adequately serve the downtown core. Traffic increases necessitating a parking capacity beyond this limit would be a requirement in excess of the capacity of the area to accept, even with a one-way street system."

Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood, public works chairman, said in submitting the report that his committee was doing so quickly, "so the public will know we have no intention of letting the downtown area die in any way. It is urgent that the public and all firms considering development outside the city know that council are alert and doing something as quickly as possible to bring relief from traffic and parking problems to the heart of the city."

Auditorium Committee Selected

Mayor Percy Scourrah has picked a committee to look into the question of building a civic auditorium, he told city council yesterday.

Ald. M. H. Mooney wanted council to send a representative to Premier Bennett to ask him about terms of his pledge to assist Victoria in building an auditorium.

The committee, he said later, will include Aldermen Arthur Dowell and Austin Curtis from the council and three non-council members whose names will be announced when arrangements are complete.

Soldier's Trial Postponed

DUNCAN—Trial of Pte. John Warren Flynn, Work Point Barracks, Victoria, on a careless driving charge has been adjourned indefinitely.

Magistrate A. S. Sutton, who started hearing the case last month, is in hospital. The case will likely be heard next month.

Stomach 'Flu'

Call it flu if you like, lots of Greater Victoria adults and babies—but not schoolchildren—are having it.

Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy, Victoria-Esquamalt medical health officer, isn't calling it flu. "This ailment," Dr. Mahaffy calls it, is striking in the form of a cold and turning quickly into a brief stomach upset, which keeps most victims at home for a day.

At the baby clinics, she said, she had heard of a number of babies having it, and apparently "a fair number of adults" are suffering from it. But "rather strangely" it isn't attacking schoolchildren to any degree. "We may get it in the schools, but I hope not."

No direct connection is seen by Dr. Mahaffy between "this ailment" and the "Q-flu" which has disrupted community routine in various parts of the United States, and which appears from reports to be of longer duration although mild. The Q stands for question mark because the virus responsible hasn't been identified.

And she doubts that there is a connection between the ailment and an increased influx

Cod-Eater Helps Out Policemen

An unknown Saanich resident came to the aid of a couple of thankful policemen last night.

Between 20 and 30 half-frozen codfish were found on the road at the intersection of Quadra and Beckwith at 6.30 p.m.

Wiring Check Made in June

A Victoria man whose rooming house was damaged by fire Dec. 8 has denied reports that he did nothing about repairing faulty wiring in the house until approached by the fire inspector.

"I had an estimate from a contractor on the cost of repairing the wiring June 21," James Crawford, 4607 Leney Place, said yesterday, "and the fire department didn't approach me until July 9."

Faulty wiring was listed as the cause of the fire Dec. 8 at his rooming house at 400 Bay Street.

New Plan Involves 26 Acres

Waterworks committee's storm-raising proposal to try to sell the B.C. Electric 76 acres of Thetis Lake property came to naught yesterday in city council.

It was withdrawn and instead, the committee will consider a company proposal to pay the city $200 an acre for a power-line easement through about 26 acres, with the property retained as park land, although cleared of obstructions to the line.

PART OF LENGTH

B.C. Electric had originally asked for an easement running along the northeastern edge of the Thetis Lake property for part of its length but then cutting through an angular projection. The committee's proposal, which brought strong protests from conservationists, was that "inasmuch as your committee does not look upon such encroachments on park lands with favor, the strip of land requested by the company, together with the triangular piece of park adjoining the southerly end of that strip, be offered for sale outright to the company."

But assistant city clerk Morran Waller informed council that the recommendation had been withdrawn by the committee chairman, Ald. Austin Curtis, who had left the meeting, and Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood explained that "there is a B.C. Electric proposal in, and the chairman wants a meeting to discuss it. It will come before the next meeting of council."

Another Thetis Lake proposal—to seek to obtain legislation enabling the property to be treated as park rather than watershed—was referred back to parks committee for further study.

LACKS POWER

Parks chairman Ald. M. H. Mooney explained that with the property in its present category, the city lacks power to prevent picking of flowers, dumping of garbage "or anything else" unless it is likely to contaminate the water.

But City Solicitor T. P. O'Grady advised council that "to use it as a park pure and simple is to expose it to taxation by the provincial government and Saanich."

If persons were caught dumping garbage in it, as watershed property, they would be liable to civil action as trespassers, he said, and they would be if they dumped garbage in his front garden. If the property were a park, the offence could be made a crime.

"You would still have to catch them," observed Mayor Percy Scourrah. "How would you be better off?"

LAKE COWICHAN—A boy pleaded not guilty in juvenile court here yesterday to a charge of being an accessory during the theft of a car. The case has been remanded until Tuesday for the summoning of witnesses.

Snow, Killing Cold Sweeps South to Tunisia

LONDON (Reuters)—Heavy snow, biting cold and strong winds swept from Scandinavia to North Africa Thursday with at least three persons reported frozen to death, and 15,000 in flight after a dam broke in Holland. (See Page 8.)

Snow even fell in parts of Algeria and Tunisia, where a 60-mile-an-hour gale uprooted trees and damaged power lines. Across the Mediterranean in Italy, a 50-year-old man was found frozen to death, near Milan. In the Tuscan Hills, north of Florence, police fought their way through heavy snow to bring food and medicine to an isolated village. In the Apennines, many villages were reported cut off. The first snow in three years stopped trains near Cosenza in the toe of Italy. Paris had its coldest day since 1918 with a reading of 12 degrees. Planes took off hours late after thawing out engines and most of the country was gripped in the cold wave. Austrian winter resorts reported bitter cold and snow up to seven feet deep in some areas. The Swiss resort of St.

Moritz reported a reading of 24 degrees below zero. Trains ran late and many automobiles had to be dug out of snowdrifts in Hungary. Three inches of fresh snow hit Berlin where 94 traffic accidents were caused by slippery roads.

Belgium had its third snow of the winter and temperatures were well below freezing. Holland was plagued by a high wind and bitter cold. In Britain, a snowstorm halted traffic along the south coast. Conditions in the straits of Dover and the English

Channel were reported the worst for years, with shipping at a virtual standstill. Two persons were reported frozen to death in Denmark. A ship gripped by ice hit a bridge in North Jutland and icebreakers tried to keep harbors open.

Council Wants Recompense

PAY UP, SCHOOL BOARD TOLD

Local Indians Welcome Vote

The federal government's proposal to give Indians the vote, greeted with anger and dismay by bands in Montreal and Edmonton, was welcomed by Indians here—provided it doesn't mean loss of other rights. (See All Aboard by G. E. Mortimore on Page 2 and story on Page 14.)

"The federal vote was on top of the list in our brief to the cabinet last July," said Robert Clifton of Courtenay, president of the Native Brotherhood of B.C. "But we want it on the same basis as we have the provincial vote—without losing our rights as Indians."

According to the current Indian Act, a waiver to such rights must be signed before the right to federal vote will be given. Chief John Albany of Songhees band agreed with Mr. Clifton:

"We want it and will accept it if it does not change our present status. If it does, we won't have anything to do with it."

But Montreal Indians seemed dead against getting the vote.

"This is a trick to rob us of what we have left," said

Matthew Lazare, chief of the Caughnawaga Indian council.

"Our birthright is being threatened. Why should we vote in a foreign nation?"

"We detest voting."

John A. McComber—known as Chief Poking Fire—said

"Many Indians are illiterate and unable to vote. This doesn't do us any good at all.

The leader of Alberta's 18,

500 Indians said they are "absolutely" opposed to getting the vote at the present time.

'Speech' Stresses Men and Nature

OTTAWA (CP)—A government program putting fresh emphasis on human and natural resources, with creation of a new ministry of forests and extension of the vote to all Indians, was placed before Parliament Thursday. (See also Page 14.)

New regulations on far-north gas and oil development will stress Canadian ownership of these resources, and the territorial councils of the north may get another small nudge toward provincial status.

MAIN POINTS

These were among the main points of the government's legislative program for the new session of Parliament disclosed in the speech from the throne read at the session opening.

The relatively short legislative agenda announced by the government had some good news for old age pensioners and recipients of war veterans allowances who want to live outside Canada. Plans are to ease the present restriction which, in the case of pensioners, requires them to live in Canada at least six months of the year to collect payments.

Youths Admit $3,000 Ruin In School

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two youths Thursday pleaded guilty to breaking into a Vancouver high school last December and causing $3,000 damage.

Robert Holt and Gordon Kennedy, both 17, were remanded in magistrate's court to next Friday for a pre-sentence report. Both were former students of the school.

A third youth is being tried separately in juvenile court here.

Other measures forecast will:

1. Provide a uniform retirement age of 75 for all federally-appointed judges in superior, county and territorial courts.

2. Put more money in the government's housing fund for direct mortgage lending, depleted last fall.

3. Amend combines legislation dealing with business mergers, with one aim to "protect the interests of small business firms."

4. Provide a three-year extension, to the end of 1963, of federal gold mining subsidies at their present rates. This costs around $12,000,000 annually.

5. Continue until March 31, 1962, the present tax-sharing deal with the provinces allowing them a 13-per-cent share of

'Fantastic' Weapon Enables Russia to Cut Manpower

MOSCOW (AP)—Nikita S.

Khrushchev said Thursday the Soviet Union is so strong it is cutting the number of men in its armed forces by almost one third and relying upon the greatest firepower rockets and inter-continental ballistic mis-

nation.

And more awesome power is to come, the Soviet premier told 1,300 deputies of the Supreme Soviet parliament.

"The central committee of the Communist party and the

you, comrade deputies, that though the weapons we have now are formidable weapons,

the weapon we have in the hatching stage today is even more perfect, even more formidable," Khrushchev said.

"The weapon which is being developed—and is, as they say

entists and designers—a fantastic weapon."

Khrushchev did not elaborate in his address, but he said that

"now it is quite clear that the United States of America is

military power."

Single Piper Plays Hamber To Last Rest

VANCOUVER (CP)—A

piper played a lone lament

Thursday as the body of

Hon. Eric Hamber, former lieutenant-governor of British Columbia, was borne through two lines of digni-ties and Seaforth Highlanders.

Among more than 500 persons who attended funeral services at Christ Church

Cathedral here were Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross,

Attorney-General Robert

Bonner and Education Minister Leslie Peterson.

But Mayor Scurrah said he

built on an old abandoned highway, being moved off by city.

Under provincial legislation,

he said, it was "the plain duty" of the Greater Victoria school

land before starting construction and "it hasn't been done to this day."

He said the case has become "simply one of trespassing."

He noted that in January,

1959, the minister of education had suggested the matter should be settled amicably.

Mr. Wyatt recommended seeking compensation for the land, and Mayor Scurrah said it would be at the value of the land when the Greater Victoria school board took it over.

Went on record, despite objections from Ald. Geoffrey

acres, as desirable.

five years toward St. Joseph's

city's share, on a 1961 population basis, of a Greater Victoria grant of $300,000. Payments will begin after the city has finished paying Royal

Jubilee Hospital a similar sum, in 1962.

S. J. Willis High 'Trespassing'

Victoria will try to obtain recompense for the city-owned S. J. Willis Junior High School property on which the school board, for the last 10 years, has been "trespassing."

This decision was made by council yesterday on the basis of a report from City Manager C. C. Wyatt and City Solicitor T. P. O'Grady.

The attempt to force the Greater Victoria school board to pay for the property will be a test case, Mayor Percy Scurrah said; if it is successful, Victoria may seek payment for other city-owned property used by the board.
